

New York Firm Bids $897,925 on Crossing; Work Might Begin in November on Project

They Beat Dodgers in Series Opener

A couple of happy Yankees are First Baseman Tommy Henrich (left) and Pitcher Alie Reynolds as they meet in the dressing room after Tommy's ninth inning homer gave Yankees 1-0 win over Brooklyn in first game of World Series. It was a pitchers' duel between Reynolds and Dodgers' Newcombe which ended with Henrich's four base drive.

Ex-Card Owner
Hannegan Dies
Once Postmaster General,
Democratic Chairman
Was Ill Some Time

R. E. HANNEGAN
St. Louis, Oct. 6 (AP)—Robert E. Hannegan, former postmaster general and one-time owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, died today at his home here.

The cause of his death was not immediately disclosed, but Hannegan had been in failing health for some time.

His wife was at his bedside. A friend who notified the press of his death said it occurred between 10 and 10:30 a. m. (E.S.T.).

Hannegan, who was only 46, gave his health as the reason for selling his interest in the Cardinals last winter.

Hannegan retired as postmaster general in November, 1947, to head a syndicate buying the St. Louis baseball club. He also had served as chairman of the National Democratic Committee and directed the party's 1944 presidential campaign.

Before that he was collector of internal revenue, serving in that post until he was named postmaster general by President Truman in 1945.

A prominent Catholic, Hannegan was made a Knight of St. Gregory, Grand Order of the Holy Cross, by Pope Pius XII in 1946.

Hannegan's last public appearance was at Kansas City last Thursday, at a testimonial dinner for William M. Boyle, Jr., new chairman of the Democratic National Committee. President Truman attended, and in his talk noted that Hannegan "had something to do" with Truman's becoming President.

When Hannegan told his part of the Cardinals he sold reporters he wanted to get into less strenuous activity because of high blood pressure.

Reds' Treatment Protested

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Truman today signed the $1,314,010,000 arms aid bill, calling it "a notable contribution to the collective security of the free nations of the world."

The legislation authorizes American arms for 14 countries in western Europe, the Middle East and the Far Pacific to help them resist communism.

In a statement at the signing ceremony at the White House, Mr. Truman said:

"This act is necessary only because of the unsettled conditions of the world today which we, in concert with many other nations, are striving to overcome."

"It is my belief that we shall be successful in these efforts to achieve international understanding and to establish, in accordance with our national policy, effective international control and reduction of armaments, through the United Nations."

Note Protests Treatment
Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The United States sent a strongly worded note to Russia today protesting the "shocking" mistreatment of Americans who stray into the Soviet zone of Germany.

"This treatment of the United States government finds to be in shocking contravention to the most elementary standards of international decency," the note said.

At the same time the United States, through Ambassador Kirk in Moscow, notified the Russian (Continued on Page 7, Col. 2.)

Col. Matt J. Winn, 88, Dies in Louisville; Known as 'Mr. Kentucky Derby' for 47 Years

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 6 (AP)—Mr. "Kentucky Derby"—88-year-old Col. Matt J. Winn—died here early today.

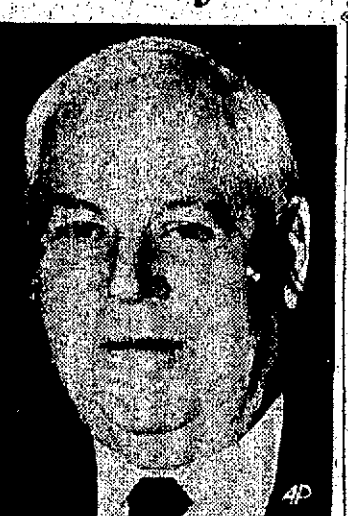

The president of Churchill Downs and the director of the annual mile and a quarter turf classic for three year old thoroughbreds crossed life's finish line at 2:45 a. m. Central Standard Time, at St. Joseph Infirmary.

He had been seriously ill for several weeks following two operations to correct a stomach disorder. Three of his four living daughters, other relatives and several business associates were at his bedside when he died.

Col. Winn was one of the few persons who had seen all 75 of the Kentucky Derbies. He saw the first one as a boy of 13 and last May he achieved his life's ambition when he attended the diamond jubilee of the Derby.

Two years ago Col. Winn became critically ill in Chicago, but recovered and last Derby Day at the Downs watched Ponder come on to score a surprise triumph.

intervening peace years. "It was one of his proud accomplishments that the Churchill Downs turf classic never missed a year during the second World War, even though travel restrictions limited some of them to 'street car Derbies.'"

Despite his advanced years and declining health, Colonel Winn maintained an active interest in horse racing. He proudly announced in 1940 that the added value of the Derby had been raised from $50,000 to $75,000.

As soon as the war was over, Winn announced another increase in the Derby purse—this time to $100,000. Incidentally, he said he had realized a long-time dream in 1946 when the estimated attendance at the Derby totaled 100,000.

In addition to Churchill Downs, Colonel Winn also was interested at various times in race tracks at Chicago, New York, Covington, Ky., and in Mexico.

Winn took over Louisville's historic race track, Churchill Downs, in 1902. Winn and associates organized the American Turf Association.

Captain Is Suspended From Duty

Navy Denies Morale Is Low Among Men of Service; Man Admits News-Tips

Is Kept at Home

Secretary Declares Acts of Crommelin Are Disloyal

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The navy today suspended Capt. John G. Crommelin from duty and denied to Congress that the morale of naval officers and men is in sad shape.

These developments piled up quickly in the wake of Crommelin's admission that he is the man who gave news reporters on Monday official correspondence about navy morale.

1. The navy suspended Crommelin, 46-year-old aviation veteran, from duty and ordered him restricted to his home. That is, a preliminary action pending final disposition of his case. There is the possibility of court martial.

Secretary of the Navy Matthews went before the House Armed Services Committee and said he believes navy morale generally is good. Without calling Crommelin's name, Matthews in effect accused him of disloyalty, faithlessness, and insubordination.

2. President Truman told a news conference he has instructed Matthews to get to the bottom of the controversy swirling about charges that the navy is not being given a fair deal in present military unification policies.

Mr. Truman declined to comment on Crommelin's release of private navy correspondence critical of defense policies.

Crommelin himself was the first to disclose the navy's action.

He told reporters of it when he came out of the office of Vice Admiral John D. Price, vice chief of naval operations. The action was taken by Price.

When Crommelin arrived at his office at the Navy Department, he found orders from Secretary of the Navy Matthews for him to report to superiors.

On Capitol Hill, one result of Crommelin's action was to spur a congressional airing of deep-seated differences, particularly between the navy and the air force, over military policy. The House Armed Services Committee ordered it.

Crommelin asked the newsmen to whom he gave the letters not to use his name as the source. But he was identified as such in a radio broadcast last night.

He followed up with a statement explaining his action.

Crommelin said he considered release of the letters "necessary to the interests of national security."

He asked anonymity, he added, to prevent any diversion of the attention of the American people from the true import of the contents of the three documents.

Adm. Louis Denfeld, chief of naval operations, earlier had ordered.

Kaiser, Steelworkers Agree; Two More Plants Are Closed

Security Measure Goes to Senate; House Vote 333-14

Sponsors Hope Demands for Pensions Will Be Less; Costs Are Shared

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Riding a triumphant 333 to 14 House vote, legislation vastly expanding the nation's Social Security program moved over to the Senate today.

It would add 11,000,000 to the 35,000,000 workers now covered by old age insurance.

Its sponsors voiced hopes it would lessen strikes and strife over labor demands for pension plans financed wholly by employers. In the federal program, workers and employers share equally the cost of the benefits the workers later receive.

Senate approval is considered virtually certain—some time before the 1950 fall elections.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee said the Senate is bound to vote for higher security benefits, but will not be able to act before the second session of the 81st Congress convenes in January.

The new bill would raise the minimum old age benefit from $10 a month to $25 a month. It would increase the maximum benefit for an elderly couple from $85 to around $125 a month. Benefits are based on a person's average wage and the number of his working years during which he paid payroll taxes into the program.

In addition to blanketing new millions under old age and survivors insurance, for a total of 46,000,000 covered workers, the 201-page bill would:

1. Boost benefits by 70 to 80 per cent or more.
2. Create new disability insurance, to take care of persons who by illness or accident can never work again.
3. Increase the payroll taxes on employee and employer. The tax would go up from the present 1 per cent on each, to 1 1/2 per cent next year; 2 per cent in 1951; 2 1/2 per cent in 1952; 3 per cent in 1953; and to 3 3/4 per cent on each in 1954.

The tax would be collected on the first $3,600 of a person's income. It is now taken on the first $3,000. The tax will go up automatically to 1 1/2 per cent in 1950, under present law.

Among new groups wrapped into the program are self-employed persons, domestic servants and employees of state and local governments. This might mean the institution of a sweep book plan for 750,000 servants and their household employers, to collect the security taxes.

The smashing House vote was a partial victory for a major point in which President Truman calls his "Fair Deal" program. The President, however, had asked that 20,000,000 more workers be brought under the insurance program, as compared to the 11,000,000 additional the House voted.

Major groups still left out include farm operators, farm hands and professional people.

Boy, Girl Injured

John Turck, 15, and Gertrude Diamond, 15, of Hanratty street, were injured slightly early last night when their car was in collision with a car while riding a bicycle at Delaware avenue and Jarrold street, according to the police. The report at 7 p. m. said Fred Smith, 37 Third avenue was turning left from Delaware avenue into Jarrold street when the car and the bicycle met. Both were knocked to the pavement. Injuries to the boy were not reported, but the girl was taken to Kingston Hospital for treatment of bruises, the report said.

Pact Is Signed to Give Hourly Pay for Insurance and Pensions; Affects 3,500 in California; Coal Walkout Seen at 'Crisis' Stage

Pittsburgh, Oct. 6 (AP)—The C.I.O. United Steelworkers made peace with Henry J. Kaiser but spread their walkout to two more plants today.

And as the nationwide steel shutdown over pensions reached the sixth day, the federal government—still ignoring Philip Murray's battle with big steel—announced it would try to settle the 18-day-old strike of 380,000 soft coal miners.

The ranks of 500,000 striking steelworkers were joined last night by 1,500 at the Atlantic Steel Company in Atlanta and 2,800 at the Riverdale plant of the Acme Steel Company near Chicago.

Atlantic is a basic steel plant which also does some manufacturing while Acme's Riverdale plant is primarily a fabricator.

Despite these developments there are no signs of an early peace in the double-barreled steel-coal walkout.

Sporadic violence marks the coal strike. A few thousand non-union miners continue digging with protection of heavily armed guards and police.

Kaiser steel's acceptance of contract demands was announced last night by Murray, president of the steelworkers.

Kaiser did what big steel refuses to do. It signed an agreement to give four cents per man-hour for insurance and six cents an hour for pensions paid completely by the company. The plan is retroactive to Oct. 1.

Thirty-five hundred employees at its Fontana, Calif., plant will benefit. Their contract was due to expire October 15.

The Kaiser agreement, which follows the exact recommendations of the presidential fact-finding board, is the first reached since the strike began. And the west coast firm is the second basic steel producer to accede to the union's demands.

Portsmouth (Ohio) Steel, with 4,000 employees, signed before the strike deadline six days ago. Standard Steel Works of Burnham, Pa., a division of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, also agreed to a pension and insurance program before the strike began.

The government is showing no indications of stepping into the steel strike soon but Cyrus Ching, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, summoned John L. Lewis and coal operators to Washington tomorrow.

Lewis didn't reply immediately. Operators said they're willing to try to find a way of ending the United Mine Workers' strike which began September 19.

Ching said the walkout is "approaching a crisis," adding:

"Although there is a lot of coal at some points, over today some people are affected by the coal shutdown and the longer it goes the worse it gets."

The walkout came after trustees of the miners' pension and welfare fund suspended payments. They said some southern operators quit paying 20-cent-a-ton royalty payments.

Meets at Bluefield

Lewis met with southern operators at Bluefield, W. Va., yesterday following a session with northern and western operators at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. U.M.W. officials were cool to the government's mediation efforts.

Thomas Kennedy commented the mediation service hasn't been very successful. He indicated negotiations—without help of the government—would continue even if the union sends representatives to Friday's meeting.

Police continued to patrol Pennsylvania highways. More than a score of men have been arrested on rioting charges since the strike began.

In Virginia, Governor Tyck turned over $5,000,000 to a state emergency fuel commission and ordered it to obtain coal for some state institutions. He warned pickets against violence, saying:

"If martial law seems desirable it will be declared in any affected areas."

Registration Days

Friday will be the first day of registration in this city for the general election to be held next month. Polls will be open tomorrow from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 in the evening.

Saturday will be the second day of registration when the polls in the various wards throughout the city also will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

The two final days of registration will be on Friday and Saturday, October 14 and 15. The polls will be open on Friday, October 14 from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Saturday, October 15 from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m.

If you are not registered, you cannot vote in the general election in November.

Dittmar's Building Is To Be Razed

Other Demolition Work Expected to Be Near Conclusion at Start of Main Contract

Bidding Is 'Good'

Engineer Says Figures Considered Excellent by Department

The state took another step toward actual start of main construction work on the Broadway crossing elimination project yesterday when it opened bids for the major contract.

Bertram D. Tallamy, superintendent of the State Department of Public Works announced that Lipsett, Inc., of New York City submitted the low bid of $897,925.75, and the second lowest was by A. S. Wickstrom, Inc., of Skaneateles at $904,617.25.

J. S. Bixby, district engineer of the department, stationed at Poughkeepsie, said that it is usually from 30 to 45 days after the opening of bids before the awarding of a contract, and indicated that it is possible that work may start late next month.

Meanwhile, the demolition work, which began late in the summer, is now about 50 per cent completed, and probably will be finished at about the time work on the main contract is ready to start.

Gerald L. Flewelling, senior land and claims adjuster, who is also stationed at Poughkeepsie, and who has been in charge of property adjustments here, said that the "unsettled right of way" on the Dittmar building, which delayed razing that structure, is "now in the clear," and the building will be removed.

The remaining four of the six bids opened in Albany yesterday on the crossing project are: Horn Construction Co., New York, $913,537; Walsh Construction Co., New York, $963,247.25; Shanahan Co. Inc., Ellenville, $964,490.50 and the Ottaviano Co., Croton, $974,805.

Bidding 'Very Good'

An engineer of the department said today that the figures submitted by the six contractors yesterday represented "very good bidding," and that the low bidder will probably be awarded the contract, if all details are found satisfactory. In instances, where low bidders are not found satisfactory, he said, the state usually sets aside all bids and readvertises.

Work on the demolition of the first 16 buildings for which Frank Hoffman of Pleasant Valley was awarded the contract, has been progressing steadily and should be completed or nearly finished when the state is ready to start the main digging and construction project. Remaining buildings in the area will be razed under the main contract.

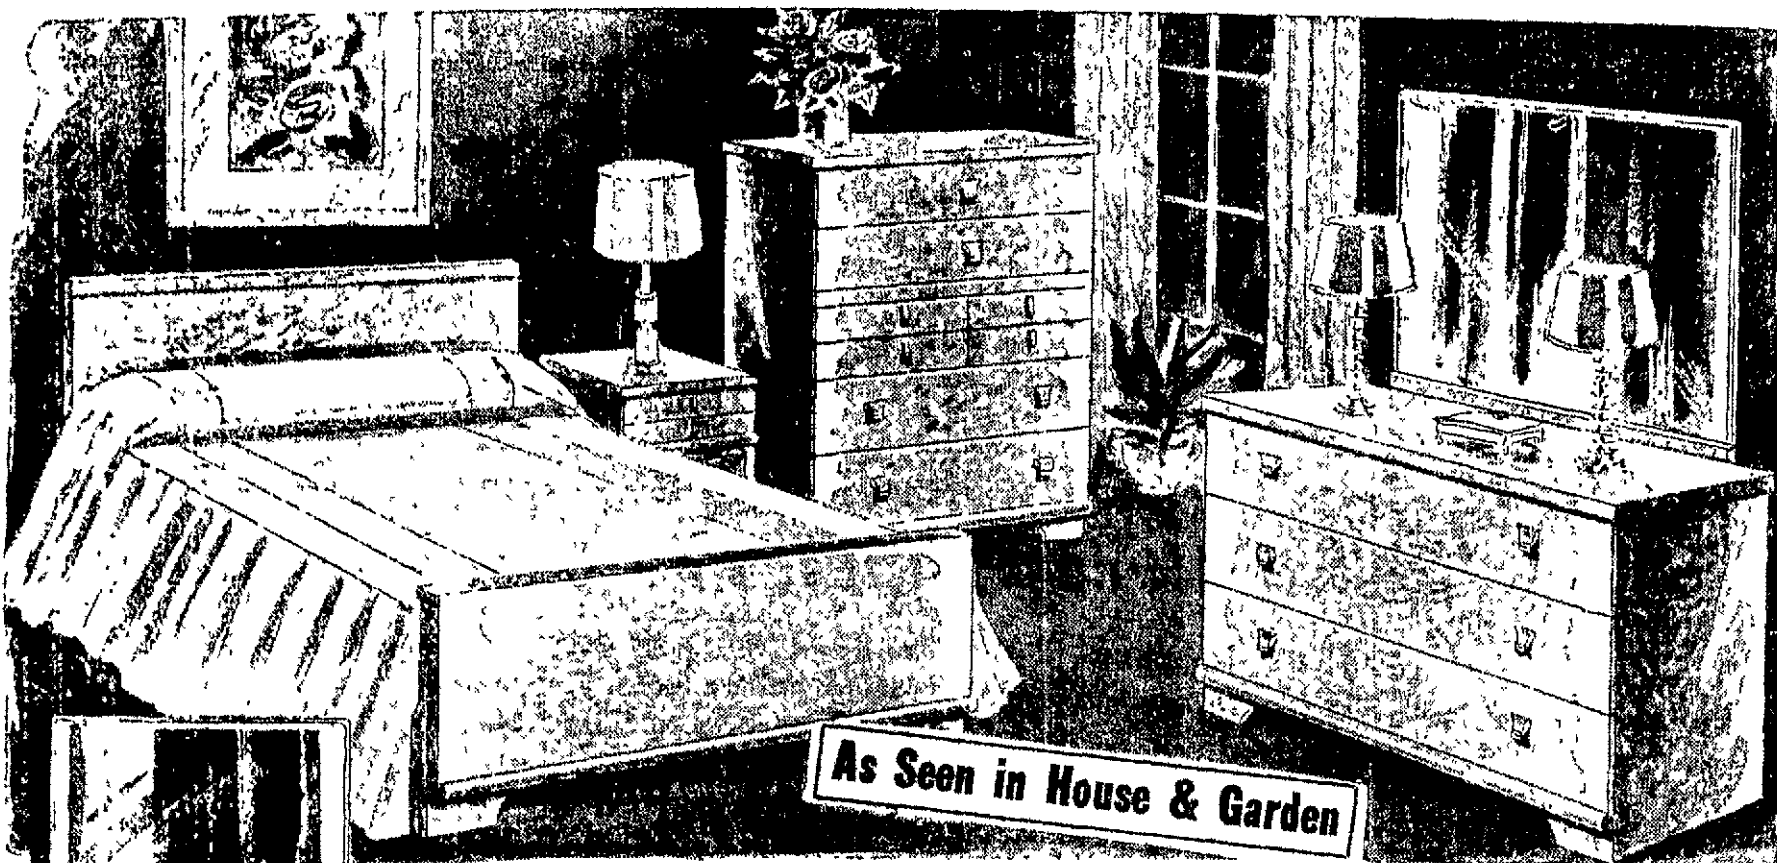

An announcement from Tallamy's office said the contract also calls for separation of grades Broadway and the tracks of the West Shore railroad including the depression of Broadway between Cornell and Dederick streets and construction of a 34-foot wide concrete pavement and sidewalks.

To Erect Span

Also constructed will be a 25-foot span plate girder bridge to carry the tracks of the railroad over Broadway; construction of an 87-foot plate girder span to carry Railroad avenue over Broadway; reconstruction and paving of Railroad avenue to merge with Greenkill avenue; construction of several new short connecting streets to serve adjacent areas.

Says Recreation Properly Handled Builds Character

"Recreation provides the opportunities for the fullest development of personality and the most effective training ground for building character," Mary Beem Lawson, director, said in summing up her remarks at the final session of the Junior League Sponsoring Recreation Institute at the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway, Tuesday. The institute was held on three consecutive Tuesdays beginning September 20 and was attended by representatives of many leading organizations in this area.

Mrs. Lawson pointed out guideposts in recreation leadership where the first concern should be the people in the group and not so much the fulfillment of a definite program. She suggested that leaders be prepared and flexible enough to change programs to keep the interest of a group.

"Recreation is not a list of activities but the spirit in which they are expressed, a spirit which must be joyful, spontaneous and free," she explained.

She said that well qualified leaders should have a real liking for people, patience, take a long view all the time, have a sense of humor, must not play favorites, have the ability to keep learning, accept the full responsibility of leadership and guidance; never allow chaos to arise, never gain popularity of a group, by joining in as one of them but always remain the leader.

In closing Mrs. Lawson said, "The children with whom you are working, therefore, are saying to you, 'build me a character, teach me to live through dramatics, to understand life's emotions through music, to play with others through games, to create something that is part of myself through crafts, help me to build a happy life.'"

Dramatics and story telling were demonstrated during the afternoon session. In the evening some of the problems of adolescents were discussed. Mrs. Lawson pointed out that the problems of this age group were real and should demand a sympathetic understanding for adults.

Mrs. William Milton, president of Junior League, thanked Mrs. Lawson for her assistance in leading the institute. She also announced that everyone who had attended two-thirds of the meetings would receive a State Youth Commission certificate.

Representatives at Tuesday's meeting were from The Children's Home, Y.W.C.A., Kingston Boys' Club, B'nai B'rith, Kingston District Girl Scout Leaders Club, Girl Scouts, Nu Phi Mu, Recreation Department, Home Bureau, Dugan, Chamber of Commerce, 4-H Clubs, Volunteers of America, and Junior Married Women's Club.

Budgets for Palestine

Cairo (AP)—The responsible daily "Al Ahran," quoting Ministry of Finance sources, said Egypt will allot $60,000,000 for administration of Egyptian-occupied Palestine. The Egyptian Army holds the narrow coastal strip in the Gaza Peninsula, occupied during the Palestine war. The money would be included in Egypt's forthcoming annual budget, "Al Ahran" said.

LET'S GIVE NEWSBOYS CREDIT

This is Newspaperboy Week. It's just one of countless special "weeks" that crowd America's calendar to overflowing. Why single this one out for particular attention?

Perhaps because newsboys have always played a unique role in the American story of accomplishment. Everyone has read tales of political figures, businessmen, leaders in many fields who started their breadwinning careers by hawking papers from corner newsstands. As a legend they rank with the "log cabin to White House" tradition.

Lots of Americans today would probably like to dismiss this sort of thing as "corny" and outworn. We think that would be a mistake.

Strip the newspaperboy legend of any sentimental heroics that may have become attached to it and you still have something of solid merit for Americans to ponder.

The youngster taking in the money, doing business on almost the smallest scale imaginable, admirably represents the will to succeed, to fight against odds for small gains, to exert energy and wit to the limit of individual resourcefulness.

In many quarters of the world the big cry now is "security." In Britain the aim is to protect the citizen from the cradle to the grave. He is cushioned against adversity whenever and wherever it may strike. America itself is pushing toward an ever larger welfare program.

Fair-minded, full-hearted people must acknowledge that the average citizen needs safeguards to soften the blows of an ill fortune he may neither be able to anticipate or to combat alone. That basic principle has long since been accepted in this country.

But no one wants to see security-mindedness dominate our whole thinking. Democracy has been described as the "revolution of the individual." If the individual is truly the key figure, the nation must do all in its power to maintain a political, economic and social framework within which he can flourish as a resourceful, free-swinging, self-reliant person.

The newspaperboy is that kind of fellow. He's on the lowest rung of the ladder to success, and it's a long way to the top. But he's there by his own efforts. Nobody guarantees him a fixed annual income or a certain volume of business. What he gets he gets by hustling and shouting his wares.

So long as youngsters still have the will to step out on their own and scrap for money at newsstands or on delivery routes, America will have at least one strong assurance that the "revolution of the individual" isn't over.

AUTOMATIC BRAKES

A way to protect motorists from that tinge of sporting blood which seems to overcome good sense at railroad crossings has at last been found by three Pennsylvania inventors. Their gadget, simply installed on any car, would detect the operation of warning signals on approach to a grade crossing, stop the vehicle, shut off its engine, and hold it stationary until the train had passed.

As with most ingenious gadgets promising to protect man from himself, there's a catch. Matching equipment would have to be installed in the highway approaches to all crossings. Even so it's a good idea, and ways might be found to overcome that handicap and the difficulty of persuading motorists that they need such help.

VEGETABLE OR FRUIT?

Is a tomato a vegetable or a fruit? This favorite dining-table question has been answered by the National Geographic Society. The correct reply, it seems, is that the tomato is a fruit. In the strange company of peas, beans and peppers. The dictionary supports this view, with its definition of fruit: "an edible pulpy mass covering the seeds of various plants and trees."

On the other side is the Supreme Court, which in 1893 decided that the tomato was a vegetable. This may settle its status in tariff matters and other legal situations, but

THE WORLD SERIES

(By George Gramada, Special Krasa Correspondent)

To confuse the masses, they give here big circus, but the people are naive and vulgar and do not appreciate culture. So instead of orchestras and ballets, they have grown men who play like little school boys with balls and bats and running around playing tag. This they call baseball, but the name is also a fraud, because the ball is not on a base at all but in the player's hand sometimes and sometimes it is just flying around.

Now they have all finished playing for the summer and will soon retire to their private enterprises which shows the corruption of their spirit and their failure to grasp the social significance of their clownish support of Wall Street. Only a few games remain, but these will be carried out in the degenerative competitive atmosphere instead of according to the principles of the late Andrei Alexandrovich Zhdanov whose dialectic materialism led him to the conclusion that games are of the people who understand the inherent voluntary qualities of Leninism by Stalin. As he objected to music which he could not understand and forbade them as imitations of bourgeois decadence, so he would have ridiculed this childish game.

These remaining games, called "The World Series," will be played between two pseudo youth groups named "Yankees" and "Dodgers." The Yankees come from the Bronx which is a proletarian faubourg controlled by the Wall Street politician, Edward Flynn, who has close associations with the Truman anti-Roosevelt forces in the Democratic party which is not democratic but bipartisan of Hoover-Dulles characteristics.

The Yankee youth group is a racist faction practicing Jim Crow and similar mass wrongs. In fact, it is a penetration of working class activities because most of the members of the group are not inhabitants of the Bronx at all, nor are they proletarians. They are, in fact, Kuls who are hired to capture the imagination of youth and to lead them away from the Marxist-Leninist-Stalinist dialectics. To enjoy themselves by yelling, shouting, standing up and stretching, eating dogs as a hot dish and poppies as a cold dish on top of which they pour a brown, sweet water called Coca-Cola. Such a black year on these capitalists who poison their own people!

The other youth group who will compete is called the Dodgers. This means that they run away when they should stand still. You will recall that the English Fascist, Charles Dickens, portrayed such a character, called The Artful Dodger. The title name for this youth group is "Dem Bums," which in dialect of Brooklyn, where they come from, is a recognition of the glorious art of the Soviet writer, Maxim Gorki, who wrote about bums in the Czarist reaction; also Steinbeck, the American renegade, Gorki discovered bums before the Marshall plan countries heard of such an ethnological entity.

Brooklyn is a vast devastated area which the proletariat have taken away from the degraded bourgeoisie who lived there in magnificence wrested from the toil and sweat of the working class. In Brooklyn, they are desperate and once a tree grew there, so they immortalized it in a book. The people of Brooklyn speak a dialect which most Americans do not understand; therefore a vast racist movement has developed against Brooklyn. To combat this white supremacy Ku Klux Klanism, the class-conscious society for the prevention of degrading remarks about Brooklyn (SPDRB) has been organized to stamp out anti-dialectic remarks concerning Brooklyn's city.

In Brooklyn also there used to be a proletarian thug organization called "Murder, Inc." This was a right-wing deviation, organized by Trotskyists to confound the revolutionary masses by utilizing Baginist terrorism, especially in Trade Unions. "Murder, Inc." disappeared because these deviations lost their mass base. The capitalist provocateurs have so completely disappeared in Brooklyn that the Hoover-Dulles Republicans have sought an alliance with the American Labor Party.

Tomorrow I will describe these men-child in their circles to divert the people from their deep depression, the hollow chains that bind them to Trumanism, the mass hunger for Marxism, and their undying fear of the atom bomb which is no longer a secret.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

TUBERCULOUS AND HEART PATIENTS

In the early days of the treatment of tuberculosis it was not unusual for a patient to enter a sanitarium and rest for as long as two years, get "fatted up," return home and in a few months lose this gained weight and have to return to the sanitarium for further treatment.

Today the patient does not have to remain in bed in the sanitarium as long as formerly. His tubercular lung is given mechanical rest by injecting air into the chest, cutting out parts of several ribs, or cutting the nerve that causes the chest muscles to move. In addition to getting the lung rested, the patient, who used to do so, takes short walks or other exercise and gradually strengthens his heart, lungs, muscles, his whole body in fact. When he returns home, he carries out the health habits learned in the sanitarium, gradually doing more physical work, and in most cases it is not necessary for him to return to the sanitarium.

Several years ago I wrote about a workshop, the Alto Work Shops, Inc., where patients from a tuberculosis sanitarium were given gifted employment when they were considered cured. This workshop has been doing this rehabilitation work for these ex-patients for 23 years. It was started on a non-sectarian basis by the Committee for the Care of the Jewish Tuberculous and has amply proven that the patient discharged from a sanitarium can be helped medically, socially, mentally and economically, to take his place as a fully functioning member of the community. He is paid the same rate of wages as in private industry but works only three hours daily at first, gradually increasing the hours.

What has been, and is being done for tuberculous patients, is now being done by Alto Shops for heart patients, in the belief that this sheltered workshop may be proved to be useful to the rehabilitation needs of the heart patient.

Dr. M. Klapper, in "Industrial Medicine," states that this effort to help heart patients to become useful members of society, after learning how to live with heart disease and work 3 to 4 hours daily, was begun last year. It is a great piece of work and will be aided by physicians and the public generally with interest.

Who's Kidding Whom?

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—Inside story of the Ford-United Auto Worker agreement on pensions was that it could have been settled exactly one week earlier—except for one thing. Walter Reuther didn't want it settled too easily.

On Friday, Sept. 23, the red-headed chief of the United Auto Workers suddenly broke off his negotiations. Both sides had been pretty much in agreement. Everything was going well. But suddenly Reuther told John Bugas, chief negotiator for Henry Ford:

"I can't come to an agreement without first threatening you with a strike."

So negotiations were broken off. Strike news flared in the headlines. A strike deadline was even issued for midnight, Thursday, Sept. 29. Henry Ford had been entirely willing to give the auto workers an old-age pension of $100 a month including government pensions, but the wily Walter Reuther wanted to sell his union on the idea that he was winning a tough victory.

Note—When the strike deadline rolled around on Sept. 29, the agreement provided for almost the same terms as were discussed on Friday, Sept. 23. But the intervening strike hula-balloo had helped Reuther cement his hold on the union, though disrupting relations between the union and the Ford Company.

Joe Ball Becomes Lobbyist

Nobody much has heard of Minnesota's sad-faced Senator Joe Ball since he was defeated last year. At first Joe toyed with the idea of becoming a newspaper columnist—almost a tougher racket than being a senator. But that didn't seem to pan out, so now Joe, after some unhappy months of indecision, has turned up as a lobbyist.

Joe's job is quite a modest one when you consider his once-high place in G.O.P. councils, and when you consider that some lobbyists rake down around fifty grand. For the ex-senator from Minnesota is drawing only around $9,000 as the lobbyist for the Association of American Ship Owners.

These are the ship owners who don't get government subsidies, and part of Joe's job is to see that they do get them. If you recall how vigorously Joe fought against so-called "statism" when he was in the Senate, you can get some idea how distasteful this lobbying job is going to be—also how broke Joe must have been to take it.

However, Joe's bosses, the unsubsidized ship owners, have pulled a neat trick which should materially lessen his work. In fact, it's one of the neatest tricks ever pulled in a town which has seen all sorts of lobbying tricks. For they managed to put their former lobbyist, Lynne Mote, in as assistant counsel of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

Embarrassing Questions

Mote, who once received $8,000 as a lobbyist for the ship owners, now receives $6,500 from the congressional committee which writes the legislation the ship owners want passed.

A bill—H.W. 5346—is now before Congress which would greatly expand government subsidies and grant ship owners more favorable tax depreciation. Lynne Mote, as lobbyist for the ship owners, helped with this bill. Now that the bill is before the House Merchant Marine Committee, Mote, as counsel for that committee, will advise on passing that bill.

Mr. Mote, asked whether he was able to lobby any bills through Congress while employed by the Association of American Ship owners, replied:

"No, I wasn't a very effective lobbyist."

"Do you think you will be more effective in your present position?"

"That is an embarrassing question."

"Do you think it is a healthy pattern for a man to be lobbying for legislation one week and to be employed by the committee writing that legislation the next week?"

"I don't think I am establishing any pattern," Mr. Mote replied.

Some members of the Merchant Marine Committee don't take quite the same view of it. But anyway, thanks to Mote's promotion, sad-faced Joe Ball now has a job.

Big Business Masquerades
 It looks like big business was now being disguised in sheep's clothing. At least, that's what tireless Congressman Wright Patman of Texas has discovered about two organizations supposed to champion small business though actually receiving support from big business.

They are the "Small Business Economic Foundation" and the "National Small Businessmen's Association." And when you look up their contributors, you find among them such small and struggling firms as the U. S. Steel Corporation and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Another struggling little company which contributes to these small business lobbying groups is American Rolling Mill. Then there is another very small outfit that most people never even heard of named the Chrysler Motor Corporation, together with Sears Roebuck and a "very small" steel company called Republic Steel.

Then there is that small glass manufacturing company—Libbey-Owens Ford, and that little business firm which only makes most of the screws in the U. S. A.—American Screw Company.

Total receipts of the Small Business Economic Foundation in 1948 were $60,931, and Congressman Patman, interested in ascertaining how much money came from big business masquerading as little business, has called De Witt Emery, president of the outfit, as a witness to find out.

Note—Most indefatigable defenders of small business in Washington are Congressman Patman and George Meredith, former counsel of the Senate Small Business Committee.

Question: How Gullible Does Administration Believe Americans Can Be?

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 6—Either the American people are believed to be gullible or high officials think it is desirable to mislead them. There seems no other explanation for the cryptic remark which the secretary of defense, Louis Johnson, made in connection with his testimony this week before the Senate Appropriations Committee.

He pointedly remarked that the official announcement by President Truman did not say Russia had the A-bomb but merely that there had been an "atomic explosion."

Just what purpose is to be served now by endeavoring apparently to minimize the significance of President Truman's announcement is a mystery. After all, everybody in the top level of the military establishment who was quoted at all was quick to say last week that America has expected all the time that Russia would have the A-bomb, that it wasn't a surprise, and that there was no chance of strategy needed or planned.

Now, just a week later, the impression is officially disseminated that maybe the "atomic explosion" was just a bit of experimentalism implying that the United States government doesn't know whether Russia has the A-bomb or not. This should be interesting news to Moscow, where presumably it had been hoped that Russia's secret would be kept. Apparently, if Secretary Johnson's statement means anything, it is a confession that President Truman really didn't know whether Russia had the A-bomb and that the use of the words "atomic explosion" was based on an uncertainty as to what really had happened.

Eminent scientists, however, express no such doubt. Here, for instance, is what Dr. E. L. Lipp, formerly director of the Atomic Energy Committee of the National Military Establishment, had to say in an interview in U. S. News & World Report:

"Do you think that Russia definitely has the A-bomb—that is, she couldn't have made an explosion without it?"

"Yes, that would follow. "Does it mean, also, that she has the bomb in such shape that she can explode it from an airplane, or merely that she can explode it?"

"It would seem to me that if she has the bomb and can explode it, she can also drop it from a plane. There's no doubt about it."

Dr. Lipp is one of the few men in the world who has actually handled A-bombs and patterned in their manufacture as a nuclear scientist. He also says that instruments do exist which are capable of detecting an atomic bomb at considerable distance.

It will come as a surprise to most people to learn that, even inside the military establishment, few persons have ever seen an A-bomb or know how it is made or what the ingredients are. Secrecy has been carried to the ridiculous extent that even the scientists who are supposed to design weapons to destroy the A-bomb have never seen an A-bomb.

So when Secretary Johnson says it was just an "atomic explosion," it may be doubted whether he is speaking from first-hand knowledge or from any other source that can be regarded as more positive in one way or another. It appears to have been said with official skepticism only in quarters where it is so easy to cultivate the impression that there is no need for concern and that an omniscient staff to the military establishment has all the answers.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 5—When I decided that unionism, as we know it in the United States, was a menace to the freedom of the worker and the stability and security of the country and, therefore, should be fought to exterminate I did not mean that we should throw Labor to the mercy of Capital. I have hopes that humanity will develop some workable system which will enable Labor and Capital to exist together in peace and cooperation, friendly to merge their interests. I doubt that this will be soon because several million workers are too stupid to understand that the unions do not exist for the purpose of helping Labor to improve its condition.

The unions are primarily a reckless, lawless, political mob force. The union bosses and manipulators have no interest in the workers as human beings but exploit them heartlessly for political purposes. The rules in pay, given to one group at the expense of other groups, the paid vacations and holidays and the overtime are just bribes to keep the dumb, selfish mob loyal to the unions and to the lawless rule of the bosses. It would be a melancholy thought that the human race, which has evolved so much wisdom, had reached the absolute ultimate in Labor relations in the present brutal, stupid and unequal system of racketeers which American unionism is today.

What would be the result of a peaceful, old-fashioned political hack, absolutely undistinguished, lacking the honor, manhood and ability to defend his monstrousity, had spoken the last word in Labor relations in the law bearing his name?

I will not admit that the human race can do no better than the Wagner Act. I will not admit that the Lewis, Murray, Green and the racketeers and murder-industry relations under present conditions are fit to speak for labor. Millions may think these men are fit to speak for them, but they aren't fit to speak for me.

A system of labor relations which relies on monopolistic union power and frankly holds that the worker is a contemptible, cowardly fool to be beaten with clubs is so bad that the only thing to do is scrap it and start over.

What other opinion of the worker can be attributed to

When that happened, did Franklin D. Roosevelt, the millionaire, take care of her? Not at all. Bernie and Jesse Jones took over her bills and Roosevelt will later disclose that for this bedridden, dying friend of many years he had spent $100,000 a week, or $10 a minute, on a woman who had fallen in grasping hypocrisy and try to throttle any man who tells the truth of him. Oh, they say, but he is dead and it is wrong and cowardly to accuse the dead. Yes, Hitler is dead, too, and more over only after Roosevelt's death could we learn the contents of his will which made this man a power for money. And only when he was dead was his fearful men emboldened to disclose other perfidies.

Many ignorant citizens, with the right but without appropriate intelligence to vote, praise unions for getting them benefits when they have no right to. I have a letter from a worker who boasts that his union got him a vacation

Diseases of Shame

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
(A.P. Science Reporter)

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—The young grocery clerk limped. And one arm was crippled, so that he held it bent close to his body.

He did his work well, and his boss was pleased and sympathetic.

"When did you get polio, son?" he asked one day.

The young man hesitated. "I never had polio," he said. "My trouble is cerebral palsy. My leg and arm have been bad since I was born."

The next day the clerk was fired. "You think I want to take a chance of getting a knife stuck in my back?" The store owner demanded. "Everyone knows people like him are crazy."

The story is from the files of the Cerebral Palsy Society of New York City. It is true, and tragic.

The young man is not only sane, but above average in intelligence. He talks well. He is largely self-educated, because his high school teachers thought he would have trouble keeping up with regular classes.

He is one of more than 500,000 Americans born with cerebral palsy. Like most of the other half million he has been living under a shadow of neglect, even under a cloud of false shame.

His only "fault" is having been born with cerebral palsy. It is actually no more his fault than if he had been born with a birthmark on his shoulder. Nor is it his parents' fault.

Neither is polio anyone's fault. But this boy could get by and find sympathy if he lied and said his trouble was polio.

Is Not Disease

Cerebral palsy is not a disease. It is the name for two main kinds of nerve and muscle disorders that come from damage to motor centers of the brain due to injury, disease, or abnormal formation.

This damage could come from something that happens before, during or after birth. One part of the brain gets stuck and doesn't develop normally. The reasons are not yet clearly known.

Seven out of every 100,000 children are born with cerebral palsy, one authority estimates. Other thousands develop it early in life due to birth injury, accidents or illness. Other thousands of people develop it much later, at any age, due to brain strokes, illnesses, or injuries.

What happens is this. Nerves that should send impulses in the usual way are for some reason blocked or short-circuited.

A child with this trouble may want to smile and say hello. Instead he grimaces and moans.

He may try to walk, but his muscles won't move his legs the right way. He may move in crab fashion, or with jerky steps.

The nerve damage may affect his sense of balance, so he can't walk or stand. The nerve impulses may go haywire causing some of his muscles to sh. He is uncontrollably, or to be locked rigidly.

Once all such children were called "spastics." Parents were told that nothing could be done for them. Parents often felt ashamed. Neighbors raised their eyebrows—having such a child meant there was something wrong in the family tree some-where. Children even made fun of the queer child.

But now, thanks to the advice for parents to send the child to an institution for the feebleminded.

Obviously, it was thought, there couldn't be much intelligence in anyone who couldn't talk, or control his muscles, or who drooled all the time.

But have you ever known an adult who suffered a brain stroke? The stroke often affects him in the same way. His intelligence isn't changed. But he may not be able to speak clearly, or to control his hands or legs.

Just within the last few years, the once-dismal, hopeless outlook for the cerebral palsied has started to change.

Tests show that 70 to 80 per cent of these children are normal or above normal in intelligence.

Medical science learned how to help them. With training, undamaged nerve and brain cells can be made to do the work of damaged ones. Children often can be taught to speak, or to use arms, legs, hands, and bodies normally or in near normal fashion.

Each case is different. Sometimes great improvements can be made through training. In others, benefits may be only slight.

Parents with children stricken this way refused to take the hopeless forecasts. They banded together to start clinics, and schools to give their youngsters and others a chance. Civic groups and other organizations supported them.

There are at least 150 such groups, and probably many more, throughout the country now, the United Cerebral Palsy Association here reports. This organization was formed a few months ago to unite these local and state-wide groups into a concerted movement over the nation to aid cerebral palsied children.

Protest Meetings Urged by Frisch

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Jews throughout the country have been urged to hold mass community meetings within the next four weeks to protest a United Nations proposal to internationalize Jerusalem.

Daniel Frisch, president of the Zionist Organization of America, issued the call for the meetings yesterday, declaring that the U.N. plan would be a "death blow to the state of Israel."

The plan, recently given public approval by Secretary of State Dean Acheson, would give the Arabs the old city, which they now hold, and the Israelis the new city of Jerusalem, with supreme authority over the whole city vested in a U.N. commissioner.

Israel has told the U.N. she will not agree to international control of any part of Jerusalem, except the holy places.

Senate Turns to Third Man in United Nations

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Senate turned today to a House bill to add a $20,000-a-year third man to the United States' team of representatives in the United Nations.

At present, the United States is represented by Chief Delegate Warren Austin, whose salary also is $20,000, and a $12,000-a-year deputy in the Security Council.

The measure would give Austin a second deputy with authority to act for the United States both in and out of the Security Council. He would have the rank of ambassador.

Senate leaders predicted quick approval of the measure.

Truck Is Damaged

A 1926 Ford pick-up truck was slightly damaged about 3:30 p. m. Wednesday when it brushed against a stone wall and hit a telephone pole opposite the Clinton Cold Storage property on the Clintondale-New Paltz road, state police reported.

The driver, Oliver Auchmoody, 65, of R.F.D. 1, New Paltz, was not injured, troopers said.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

As Pegler Sees It

with pay and six paid holidays a year. He thinks he deserves them. The vacation with pay is a gift of generosity or an extortion, but never a right. The same is true of paid holidays. Why should the employer give the employee anything? If gifts are insisted, why wouldn't it be fair for the employer to insist on gifts from the worker? Why shouldn't the employer demand that the worker work two weeks plus six days free?

He gets overtime, too, which is simply a racket, as all union men know. Overtime work is time and one-half because it is supposed to be exhausting. Yet they all demand overtime work when, to hear them tell it, their efficiency is down and their work is worth less, no more, than the straight time pay.

I won't mangle ten weeks, but this worker had an accident, at home, not on the job, which required six stitches in his wrist. He couldn't work for two and one-half months, and had to borrow money and was a long way from being himself again. I don't see how he lived by the state's aid. I don't see how he lived by the state's aid. I don't see how he lived by the state's aid.

This is the pugnacious attitude which makes unionism a racket, which makes unionism a racket, which makes unionism a racket.

Today's Business Mirror

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—That crack of the bat today at Yankee Stadium—it echoes in the halls of business just as well as in the rarified atmosphere of the Bronx. The World Series stirs up all kinds of talk—about everything from profits to office boys.

It's not just that New York is, as the sports writers keep telling you, baseball-mad. Some of that loud rooting you heard Sunday for the Yankees and the Dodgers came from New York merchants, hotel keepers, hotdog tycoons, theatre managers. The cheers from the railroad, airline and bus companies would have been just as loud if the Red Sox and Cards had won. But all of them are happy today, very happy.

Merchants here will be $12 million the richer for the World Series, in the estimation of the New York Convention and Visitors' Bureau. Sterling characters from as far away as San Francisco will contribute their share to that. New Yorkers will add a lot to the kitty, because the World Series seems to loosen the purse strings all along the line.

Look at the theatre seat sales booming. Look at the hotels—room clerks saying, "sorry," for the first time since the dear days they remember in the early post-war years when you had to know someone to be sure of a hotel room here.

Or, look at the ticket scalper. He's reported selling for $100 a set of box seats for which he paid $32. But don't wire in for his name and address—we don't know where you can get any tickets. We can't even get off ourselves to try for standing room along with you.

But to get back to the office boy. The office boy is a baseball institution. Probably there's no joke in the American tradition more tried and true than the one linking the health of the office boy's grandmother to the fortunes of the Dodgers or the Yankees.

The baseball crisis, which has supplanted the dollar crisis and the strike crisis as our current A-1 crisis, has recalled the office boy to the minds of the executives over at Jersey Standard Oil and they have given forth with a paean of praise for the young man—one that you might harken to—especially now when he doesn't answer your buzzer because he's down at the corner getting the latest report on them Burns.

Over at Jersey Standard Oil

they have a little joke of their own about the office boy. It's not about grandma, but goes like this: When a Jersey director retires, the company hires a new office boy. That's perhaps because they like everyone, especially new ambitious office boys, to know that so many of their directors started as office boys.

Someone over at Jersey has looked into the office boy situation, and reports on his changing world. A generation ago the average office boy was 14 years old and his main qualification was to be spry at running errands. Whether this is an accurate description of the former office boys who now sit on the Jersey board, no one over there says.

But they do point out that nowadays the office boy is different. High school graduates are the rule. "And college, even graduate school, diplomas no longer cause comment," the Jersey spokesman comments.

They are encouraged, the younger ones, to add to their schooling. They are given leaves to this end, and about 99 per cent of them return to posts with the big oil company.

Other office boys go to night school, and when they complete a company-approved course, they get two-thirds of the registration and tuition fees refunded.

This interest in office boys is by no means confined to the oil company. Other companies are actively seeking new executive blood, and finding it in the recruits who start out running errands, sorting mail and answering the buzzer.

Answering the buzzer, that is, except during the World Series.

When the nation is, to coin a phrase, baseball-mad, all bets are off, all signals are changed—even on such things as too-serious consideration of the state of business.

Partnership Considered

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—Under-secretary of State Webb said today the United States, Britain and Canada are considering a "partnership" in the atomic energy field. He told a news conference that "good progress" in exploring this possibility was made in the recent American-British-Canadian talks on atomic matters. These discussions were adjourned last week-end. A full partnership among the three governments would require congressional approval. Present laws forbid American scientists from passing secret atomic information to other nations.

Expedition Paid With Clives

Clives were such an expensive luxury to western civilization at one time that the ships of explorer Ferdinand Magellan sold a cargo of them for more than the cost of a three-year expedition.

cent property; extensive grading; drainage structures and facilities; and alterations to various services utilities above and below ground estimated at $991,000.

Tallamy's office announced that 100 per cent bidding was received yesterday on all work offered by the state. Fifty bids were received on six highway construction projects and two maintenance projects, and low bids totaling $2,111,115.75 were received.

Nearest to this county aside from the crossing project was a bid of $193,689 for reconstruction of nearly a mile of Route 32 in Orange county near Highland Mills, by Michael J. Torpey, Inc., Woodside.

Kingston first realized that the Broadway crossing elimination project was a reality last Feb. 18 when state officials announced emphatically before a group of merchants and other interested persons that the state this time meant business after 30 years of discussion and delay on various other crossing elimination proposals.

L. J. Hughes, director of the Bureau of Rights of Way and Claims, made the historic statement at the February session that local residents "may find all the obstacles you want and talk about them, but the job is going ahead."

A few weeks later the state filed papers at the county clerk's office which gave it the right to enter properties in the area. A short time later flowelling began work on the adjustment of claims and before the summer ended the demolition work was well under way.

Truman Signs
Foreign Office that "it expects that those Soviet officials who are responsible for these acts will be punished."

The American note referred specifically to the case of the two American college students who "inadvertently and innocently" entered the Russian zone while bicycling and who were detained for eight weeks.

It also cites the case of Pvt. John J. Sinkowicz, an American soldier, who escaped Sept. 16 from a prison in the Soviet sector of Berlin after 10 months of imprisonment. The note said he was held under "brutal and uncivilized conditions."

The note said bluntly: "There can be no justification for this kind of treatment of citizens of a friendly nation, persons whose only violation of law is purely technical at most and whose innocence of criminal charges can easily be established."

Captain Suspended
dered an investigation into the release of the documents, and indicated the prospect of a court martial. He said the letters were "confidential" and not intended for the public eye. Crommelin's statement questioned that.

"I can find nothing in the letters or endorsements as released which is of military confidential nature and which should be withheld from the people of the United States," he said. "However, that judgment must be finally made by the people themselves."

"My action in this vital matter may have been a technical violation of a regulation, but it had to be done."

Jurisdictional Dispute
Concludes at New Paltz
A jurisdictional dispute which caused interruption of work on the New Paltz State Teachers College dormitory has been settled and work will resume tomorrow morning.

George E. Yerry, Jr., agent for the carpenters' local, said today: "Workmen went on a 'holiday' Tuesday afternoon over the question of whether the laborers or the carpenters should have jurisdiction on erecting and stripping of concrete forms on the job. This work has been awarded the carpenters under an agreement by the international unions involved, Yerry said."

Anderson, Fischer Associates, Inc., are the general contractors on the dormitory job. Avalone Construction Company is the subcontractor on the concrete work.

Rackley Is Given

First Inning Dodgers
Raschi hurled the first pitch to Reese for a called strike. Reese sent a high skyscraper fly to Lindell in medium left field.

Jorgensen grounded to Henrich who beat him to the bag for an unassisted putout.

Snider slapped Raschi's third pitch right at Rizzuto who tossed him out with plenty to spare. No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning, Dodgers
Robinson slashed a double over Johnson's head coming in ahead of Lindell's throw to Rizzuto.

Hermanski fouled to Coleman. Robinson tagged up and made a daring dash for third which he made when Coleman slipped on the grass as he made the throw.

Rackley sent a dribbler down the third base line and was out, Johnson to Henrich. Robinson was forced to hold third.

Hodges rifled a single past the outstretched glove of Rizzuto to score Robinson. Lindell fumbled the ball in left field, Hodges continued to second on the error.

Campanella was given an intentional walk. Roe struck out, swinging. One run, two hits one error, two left.

Second Inning Yankees
Pitching carefully to Lindell, Roe saw the count go to 3-2, then got Lindell on a soft fly to Hermanski in short right.

Johnson also ran up a 3-2 count, then fled to Snider who made a glove-hand catch after nearly misjudging the ball.

Campanella fouled off four consecutive pitches, then lifted an easy fly to Snider.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning Yankees
Rizzuto rifled a solid single over third base into Jorgensen's head into left field, Tommy Henrich, hero of yesterday's 1-0 Yankee win, received a tremendous ovation as he stepped into the batter's box. Hermanski raced into the right field corner to get under Henrich's looping fly. Robinson galloped into foul territory behind first base to gather in Bauer's pop. DiMaggio tied deep to Snider who made the catch in left-center field.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Fourth Inning Yankees
Roe struck out, swinging. One run, two hits one error, two left.

Fifth Inning Yankees
Pitching carefully to Lindell, Roe saw the count go to 3-2, then got Lindell on a soft fly to Hermanski in short right.

Johnson also ran up a 3-2 count, then fled to Snider who made a glove-hand catch after nearly misjudging the ball.

Campanella fouled off four consecutive pitches, then lifted an easy fly to Snider.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Arriol Accepts Resignation of Premier Queuille

Paris, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Vincent Auriol accepted today the resignation of Premier Henri Queuille, and the extreme right left immediately began moving for a return to power. Queuille offered his resignation yesterday after a bitter cabinet clash on the wage-price issue. Auriol was unable to persuade the radical Socialist (Communist) lead to reconsider. The Communists and the followers of Gen. Charles De Gaulle, the extreme right had been excluded from Queuille's coalition, and had managed to give some political stability by remaining in office a year and 25 days longer than any other post-war cabinet.

The Socialist president began negotiations with political leaders after Queuille refused to bring cabinet quarrel before Parliament for an airing. Queuille led a bitter debate might result in an irreparable split among parties, which formed his cabinet. The next coalition, such a plan might make a new cabinet impossible. Thus, only solution was a new general election, which is what Gaulle has been clamoring for.

Queuille quit because he opposed demands for a general wage increase by the Socialists, who are one of the main parties in the coalition cabinet. Communist and non-Communist groups have demanded wage increases to offset rising prices exacted from devaluation of the franc.

It was the fifth time since the formation of the post-war fourth republic that Auriol has accepted a premier's resignation.

A.F.L. Claims Alliances Are Ready for 1950

St. Paul, Oct. 6 (AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders today claimed success in cementing labor-farmer political alliances for a joint drive in the 1950 congressional elections. They said they have worked out deals with farm groups in various sections of the country to cooperate "in electing our friends and defeating our enemies" in next year's important campaigns. George Munn, A.F.L. secretary-treasurer, told the federation's annual convention that "in many cases the problem of making our influence felt in predominantly rural districts has been solved by working out formal and informal alliances with farm groups."

Joseph D. Keenan, director of the A.F.L.'s Labor League for Political Education, in winning convention endorsement of a multi-million dollar political war chest, said: "There is one thing we have learned in our experience in the political arena. The enemies of labor are also the enemies of the farmer. Since our enemies are in common, the individual farmer and the city worker have everything to gain through mutual, political action as voters."

Keenan told newsmen the A.F.L. Political League has worked out cooperative political arrangements with groups belonging to the National Farmers Union, National Grange and American Farm Bureau.

Moses Tells Jersey Coney Island Mistake

Wanlath, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Coney Island is a mistake and New Jersey should not make one like it. That was the advice given to the New Jersey State Park Commission yesterday by New York City Park Commissioner Robert Moses.

Speaking to the committee during its tour of Jones Beach State Park, Moses described Coney Island as "an over-commercialized mistake." He said he "would like to get rid of most of it" and believes about two-thirds of the famous beachfront's concessions eventually would revert to the city by foreclosure.

"We've picked up part of the property already," he said, "and we'll get a lot more."

He said the land probably would be turned into public recreation areas. The Sandy Hook Committee toured Jones Beach as part of its investigation into a proposal for development of a public beach on the North Jersey peninsula. The army owns Sandy Hook, but Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll of New Jersey, who appointed the committee, has termed the federal government's attitude toward the beach plan as "quite sympathetic."

SHOKAN

Shokan, Oct. 5.—The Fall Institute of the Methodist Youth Fellowship, Catskill Mountain Group, will take place in the West Hurley Church Friday evening, Oct. 7. The discussion period will begin at 7.30 with the Rev. G. R. Moody, Fleischmanns, and the Rev. Milton R. Ryan of Ashokan conducting classes for intermediates and seniors. There will also be a class for adults accompanying young people to the meeting. At 8.20 following a worship service the Rev. E. L. Crabb of Marquetteville is scheduled to speak on "India," in connection with which an authentic sound technical movie film will be projected. A recreation period and the serving of refreshments by Fellowship members will conclude the interesting program.

Donald Buswell, one time Shokan boy, came very near to losing his Grahamsville residence by fire recently, according to "The Townsman," a small but newsy paper published in the busy Sullivan county village. It appears that Mrs. Buswell, who was at home alone with her small son, Dale, discovered flames enveloping an oil burner in the cellar but could not get down the inside stairs because of the intense heat, so she went around the outside way, found the extinguisher hanging near the furnace and was able to put the fire out before the tools arrived. Then of all things it was found that 4-year-old Dale was missing from the secret; but, fortunately again, a search revealed that the little chap had taken to the woods with his dog. No damage done to the building.

The October meeting of the Ashokan W.S.C.S. was scheduled for Wednesday evening of this week at the home of Mrs. William Stevens.

Eltinge Gray, Sr., who has been employed for the past two years at Joe Steinhilf's place in the Moonhew section of Olive, reports a bumper crop of potatoes grown on this isolated farm, with the smooth, white-skinned spuds angled up 17 in a hill and many of the tubers weighing a pound apiece. "Finest potatoes I ever saw," says Eltinge who as man and boy has worked on many an Olive-Hurley uplands farm.

Not much is heard here of results attained in the course of the late open trout season, though it is rumored some good catches were made despite discouragingly low water conditions. Frank Piazza and his pal, Johnny Tesco, of Newburgh did all right in the Esopus below Phoenicia shortly before closing date: Frank, using a six-pound test leader and 30-pound line, took a 20-inch German brown of 5 1/2-pound weight, while Johnny landed a 2 1/2-pounder, also a brown. Up at Andes, September 14, during a Rod and Gun Club meeting, Bert Cornell presented a combination built, casting and fly rod to Raymond Ackerly as prize for largest trout caught in a local stream. Ray's big 'un measured 21 1/2 inches and weighed three pounds, eleven. Keen runner, however, was Donald Laidie and his 21 and three-fourths-inch entry tipping scales at three, ten, whilst Isaac Fletcher's 21 1/2-inch weighed three pounds, 8 ounces. Don's trout was a bit the longer but Ray's evidently had been eating a little better. Still, none of the boys has much on the others, at that. Close work.

Mrs. Filbert Reveals Flavor Secret of New Mayonnaise

"So many of you have complimented me on my brand new mayonnaise flavor that I want you to know just why it tastes so good," says Mrs. Filbert. "First, I put in lots more egg yolk for richness. Then I add more fresh lemon juice for a good zippy tang. "I prepare it homemade style—in small batches—so you can enjoy real homemade flavor. And my mayonnaise gets extra-whipped to be sure it's creamy-smooth. "Of course there's one other step, too, and that's my own secret. But when you taste my mayonnaise... Mrs. Filbert's NEW Mayonnaise... I'm sure you'll find an exciting flavor that's better than ever!"

A&P, TOO, TAKES OFF ITS HAT TO MR. C. WHIT BLOUNT OF WAYNESBORO, GEORGIA

-AND TO ALL OUR OTHER GOOD COMPETITORS WHO HAVE TAKEN A SIMILAR STAND

[An Editorial From The Atlanta Journal, Thursday, Sept. 29, 1949]

Competitor Denounces Suit Against A&P

THE BOLD three-column advertisement in the current issue of the Waynesboro True Citizen catches the reader's eye. We quote it in full.

To our notion that advertisement by C. Whit Blount states the economic and governmental aspects of the case against A&P with a clarity and forcefulness that most of the editorial comment has lacked.

Also it strikes us as a fine example of sportsmanship in business.

Incidentally, it is about as effective an advertisement as could have been written for Mr. Blount's "Grocerteria".

Makes you sort of wish you were in Waynesboro to trade with him, doesn't it?!

[An Advertisement From The Waynesboro True Citizen]

A Word For Our Competitor The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

There has been a move by the anti-trust department of the Federal Government to destroy our leading competitor, the A&P Food Store.

It may seem odd, but we are opposed to this move.

The A&P Co., is definitely our strongest competitor - they keep us hopping. But, we are still in business - And Expanding. We do it by selling quality merchandise, buying at a close margin and selling at CLOSER margin.

The so called "trust-busters" charge that the A&P Co. control some of the production and processing ends of the food business. As a result, they hold the cost price down on foods.

WELL, WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS?? If A&P holds the costs down, it makes our suppliers hold their costs down to the same competitive level. They can sell cheaper, AND SO CAN WE.

We intend to continue to try to sell better merchandise than A&P; We also will continue to have competitive prices.

BUT, We don't believe the government, or any individual should try to break up a firm that is doing a good, clean, efficient job of serving the people of this country.

Dulles Claims His Help Comes From 'Loyal Democrats'

They See Dangers, He Says, of Truman Trend to Full Rule by State

Lockport, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Senator John Foster Dulles (R.-N.Y.) today claimed election support by "a lot of good, loyal Democrats" he said were worried over President Truman's "fantastic" domestic plans.

Dulles said many "patriotic and loyal members of the Democratic party see the danger" of what he calls the administration's move down the road toward an all-powerful state.

He told a Republican dinner meeting at Batavia last night that the Truman domestic proposals were "so fantastic that even the Democratic Congress is a vigilant guardian for the American people against those dangers."

He claimed that the President had suffered an "overwhelming" defeat at the hands of the 81st Congress.

Dulles bid for Democratic support as he entered the heavily industrialized Niagara frontier area on the last day of his 500-mile western New York campaign swing.

The Republican senatorial candidate mentioned pledges of support received from John W. Davis, the Democrats' 1924 presidential nominee, and Owen D. Young, retired industrialist once considered a possible Democratic candidate for president and governor.

Dulles hammered at the Truman administration's Brannan farm price support program, federal aid to education, and what he calls socialized medicine.

All three proposals, he contended, would give the federal government more power and control over the individual, a goal he said the Communists favor as helpful to their long range plans.

Dulles said former Governor Herbert H. Lehman, his Democratic-Liberal opponent in the Senate election Nov. 8, had "committed himself in advance" to support the entire Truman program.

Dulles added: "If the President's own party in Congress has refused to go along with him on these proposals, do you want to send to Washington as your senator somebody who says the danger of the all-powerful state has no reality in America?"

He said the former four-term governor was no Communist but that "he's the kind of person the Communists want to send down to Washington."

"He would do the things the Communists want done in this country," he said, "that's why they stick to him like a burr."

Jury Is Chosen to Hear Auto Negligence Actions

A jury was secured shortly before noon today in Supreme Court to try the six negligence actions which grow out of a two-car crash south of Port Ewen on the early morning of October 12, 1947. Opening remarks were concluded by counsel just prior to the noon recess.

William Dougherty, a passenger in a car operated by Francis S. Hanson, was fatally injured and died five days later in Albany Hospital. His father as administrator sues to recover $100,000, naming the Braddock Automatic Music Corporation of New York and Albert Bailey, Jr., of Harlem, operator of a Plymouth coupe which was partly owned by the music company and partly by Bailey, as defendants and the action of Dougherty is also brought against Francis S. Hanson, driver of the car in which Dougherty was a passenger.

In Albert J. Bailey, Jr., sues Hanson for $50,000 on the theory that Hanson was responsible for the accident. Albert J. Bailey, Sr., also sues Hanson for injuries.

Francis S. Hanson, operator of the car in which four young men from the vicinity of Margaretville were passengers, sues Bailey, Jr., and the Braddock Automatic Music Corporation for $50,000 for injuries which he suffered.

Actions are also brought by George C. Miller for injuries and by Gerald Hanson for damage to his car which his son was operating.

In opening the case this morning counsel stated the accident happened during a heavy fog as the Hanson car was proceeding southerly from Margaretville enroute to New York city and the Bailey car was being operated northerly from New York to Onondaga.

Hanson and the occupants of his car, all young men, had attended a movie at Margaretville during the evening and then went to a tavern at Olivera where they attended a dance. There it is alleged they had a few drinks of beer and returned to Margaretville. One of the young men then suggested they go to New York city to visit a relative and to enjoy a good time, the next day being a holiday. It was about 1 o'clock when they left Olivera for Margaretville.

From Margaretville they drove to Kingston and at the Rondout creek bridge encountered a heavy fog which continued south of Kingston. One of the passengers in the Hanson car alleges the car was being operated at 40 to 45 miles an hour as it crossed the bridge and proceeded south. Others in the car were sleeping.

On His Side, Is Contention Counsel contends that Hanson was on his own side of the road just prior to the accident and that the Bailey car came over to the left and caused the crash.

Bailey, accompanied by his father, left Harlem about 1 a. m. after work to drive to Onondaga where Mrs. Bailey was staying. Counsel for Bailey contends the car was being operated at moderate speed in the fog and that Bailey saw lights of a car approach and when the car appeared to come over to the east side of the highway on his lane, Bailey swung his car to the left to avoid it and at that instant the Hanson car driver swung back and the cars collided.

Abraham Streifer appears for Dougherty. Louis G. Bruhn appears for Albert Bailey, Sr., Carter and Conboy with N. LeVann Shiver appear for Bailey, Jr., and Cashin & Fivig represent Hanson, Jr., Bailey, Jr., suffered a fractured jaw and fractured hip and other disfigurement.

Hanson contends he was so severely injured about the head that he knows nothing of the accident and suffered a lapse of memory for several days. For his injuries he asks $50,000.

Detroit Feels Pinch of Strike

Detroit, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Detroit industrial giant began feeling the pinch today of the nationwide strike.

The Packard Motor Car Co. lost 7,856 of its 12,413 employees until Monday. The Briggs Manufacturing Co., which supplies engines for Packard, laid off 5,000 workers at its Conner plant for most of the week.
Both companies said operations would resume Monday but on a reduced schedule. Packard said its plan is to balance shortages caused by the steel strike. Meanwhile, a full marked the United Auto Workers for pensions. Bargaining between the U.A.W. and Chrysler Corp. was recessed as the company studied the union's proposal. U.A.W. demands Chrysler were tailored to fit in the pension settlement with the steel industry.

Retired Professor Finds House Is Ransacked

Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—An unidentified man broke into the room home of a retired university professor last night and made off with jewelry and clothing. The burglar was discovered by professor Heber Dunham, 67, of New York University. Dunham returned to his home at 25 North Broadway. The burglar escaped.
Police told this story: The burglar, accosted by Dunham, ran to a car, jumped in and drove away. Dunham, meanwhile, phoned an alarm to police and the burglar's license number. Twelve minutes later, a police car spotted the car and followed it over to the side of the street, but the burglar ran away in the darkness.
Police said they recovered $1,000 worth of clothing and jewelry from the burglar's car, but could not immediately identify the man who had stolen them.

Chinese Nationalists Claim Big Victory

Canton, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Chinese nationalist ministry of defense claimed a sizeable victory against Communist in Hunan province today.
The ministry, asserting 10,000 were killed or wounded, said victory would stabilize the situation in Central China.
The victory, the ministry said, was 30 miles northwest of Hengyang where some 30,000 to 40,000 were encountered. The battle was reported still in progress as the Reds were said to be retreating.
Importance of the Nationalist victory, the ministry explained, was that it removed an immediate threat to Shaoyang, 60 miles northwest of Hengyang.
The official Central Daily News reported some mechanized units under the command of Chiang Kai-shek, younger son of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, had moved in Canton from Formosa route to the northern Kwangtung front.

Live in Park
Birmingham, Eng. (AP)—For almost seven months 41-year-old Mrs. Mary Smith and her three small children lived like rabbits in Birmingham parks. They slept under bushes and in tool sheds, tidied themselves in the wash rooms, ate when something came their way. A magistrate could hardly believe the evidence and police said they couldn't understand how they managed it so long without detection. Mrs. Smith, deserted by her husband and homeless, was told last March to place the children in an institution. She couldn't bear to part with them, and took to the parks. Said Police Sergeant John McCabe: "Stranger still, the children were clean, well dressed and well nourished."

Raw Meat Keeps Cat Going
Santa Barbara, Calif. (AP)—Is your cat listless, grouchy, bored with life? If so, you might try on your kitty the diet Daniel A.

Sattler feeds his pet. Sattler's cat joined his family as a kitten. That was 20 years ago. And she has amazed the family by remaining frisky despite her old age. The venerable feline, a centenarian by human standards, "never explain her spryness and longevity. She's restless, almost wild. Spends most of her time roaming the neighborhood looking for excitement." Sattler thinks maybe the rugged diet she gets may explain her spryness and longevity. He feeds her regularly: raw fish, raw liver, cottage cheese and occasionally floats an egg two in her milk bowl.

Late Bulletin

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Truman said today that the coal and steel strikes have not yet reached the point for his intervention.

He made the statement at a news conference. Minutes earlier John L. Lewis accepted an invitation to attend a government-sponsored peace parley on the coal strike tomorrow.

The mediation talks were called by Conciliation Director Cyrus Ching, who said the coal situation is approaching a crisis. Mr. Truman said warning of government officials that the coal and steel stoppages will hurt the domestic economy were well timed and necessary.

Can Handle Gators
Not 'Fire Water'

Denis A. Moses, a full-blooded Indian from Basom, N. Y., bid goodbye and good luck to officers at police headquarters this morning before starting out of the city as City Judge Raymond J. Mino had ordered.

Destination—ultimately, Moses said—to wrestle alligators in Florida.

Kingston was a mere "fire water" stop for the Indian, the records showed today. He was arrested early yesterday afternoon by Special Officer Walt McDonough on Broadway near the Strand and taken to headquarters by Officers Thomas Tomshaw and Clarence Sickles.

Judge Mino today imposed a suspended sentence of ten days in jail and advised Moses to be on his way. That he would do, he indicated later, because occasionally when he wrestles alligators, he gets in the movies down in Florida.

P.S. If you're interested in putting alligators to sleep, when you're not wrestling with them, merely rub their under side with sand. That's what the Indian said.

Meeting to Be Held

50 Dynamite Caps
Found on School
Bus; Driver Praised

Port Jervis, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Nearly 50 dynamite caps were found today on a school bus loaded with 36 children, the state police reported.

They were carried onto the bus by a 12-year-old boy who was passing them out to his friends, the officers said.

They credited the bus driver, 29-year-old Aron Pavelsky, with preventing a tragedy when he "thought the boy was trying to hide something," stopped the bus, and investigated. Pavelsky said the lad had a heap of explosive caps in his lap.

The driver confiscated all of them on the spot and cached them along the road between Westbrookville and Otisville. Then he completed his run to the Westbrookville public school and called police.

An investigation was started at once to learn where the boy found the caps, nearly a boxful. Although the caps are normally detonated with a fuse to set off the more sluggish dynamite, they are very sensitive and occasionally explode from shock. They are about twice the size of a 22 long rifle cartridge, but much more powerful.

Synagogue News

Ahavath Israel

Congregation Ahavath Israel, Rabbi Philip Weinberg—The Jewish holiday of Succoth, known as the Feast of Booths, will be observed in at sundown Friday, at Ahavath Israel Temple, corner of Wurts and Pierpont streets. Services Friday and Saturday will commence at 6:30 p. m. Other services are planned for Saturday and Sunday at 8 a. m. Rabbi Weinberg will conduct the services and will be assisted by Cantor Max Reich of New York. On the holiday of Succoth, the Jew re-lives many eventful, heroic pages from his history. He recalls the momentous journey from ancient Egypt to the Promised Land when his people lived in tents and booths. The symbols of this holiday are the Sukkah, or booth, which is made of boughs and plants beautifully decorated within with flowers and fruits. This is built out under the open heaven and a part each day of the festival is spent within it. Election of officers of the Ahavath Israel Temple for the coming year will take place Sunday, Oct. 9, at 8 p. m. at the vestry hall. Refreshments will be served. The first late Friday night service will be held October 21 at 9:15 p. m. Services for the latter days of the holiday and Simchath Torah will be announced next week.

Fog Hits Britain

London, Oct. 6 (AP)—The first bad fog of the autumn blanketed southern Britain and its sea lanes today. It caused the wreck of a freighter in the Scilly Isles and hampered air and highway traffic. The 6,350-ton English motor ship Fantee, boring through thick mist, crunched onto Seven Stones Reef in the Scilly group about seven miles off England's southwest tip. Reports to the mainland said the crew of about 50 was picked up by a rescue boat and that the Fantee was a complete wreck. No casualties were reported. By noon the fog was clearing from London.

Robeson Will Speak
At Cleveland Rally

Cleveland, Oct. 6 (AP)—Paul Robeson will arrive here by plane this afternoon. The Negro singer and left-wing lecturer will speak at a public rally tomorrow night on Cleveland's east side.

Several veterans' organizations already have voted to ignore the meeting to avoid possible recurrence of rioting that attended a Robeson speech at Peekskill, N. Y.

A speech scheduled by Robeson at Oberlin College today was cancelled, after college authorities stipulated a Negro leader holding opposite views must share the platform. Robeson's appearance had been arranged by a student forum.

The cancellation, announced by Ray Dennis, co-chairman of the Cleveland committee to welcome Paul Robeson, asserted the terms were "not consistent with the right of a citizen to be heard."

The cause espoused by Robeson, the statement added, was "not subject to debate."

The other Negro to have appeared with Robeson was the Rev. Horace White of Detroit. The forum was to be on "The American Negro and Civil Liberties Today."

In Robeson's absence, White will speak at Oberlin with Hugh Deacy, chairman of the Progressive party of Ohio.

Prague Citizens Feel
Arrests and Controls

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 6 (AP)—Mass arrests of Prague citizens and new government controls over the church were reported in the Czech capital last night.

Reliable sources said nearly 1,000 persons were arrested in Prague Tuesday night. There was official confirmation and reasons for the arrests were not known.

The Prague press disclosed that the country's Communist cabinet has voted to demand inventories of all church property, and to give the government power to dismiss from his post any Czech priest whose citizenship is questionable.

These, with other sweeping restrictions on the church, will be vested in a new cabinet ministry for church affairs which will administer the new Communist-sponsored church control bill. The ministry will be headed by an appointee of Communist President Klement Gottwald.

There was speculation in Prague that the mass arrests might indicate forthcoming treason trials similar to the recent Budapest hearing in which Laszlo Rajk, former Hungarian foreign minister, and two others were sentenced to die.

The Yassar Beauty Shop, 296 Wall street, formerly under the management of Mrs. Juanita Williams, has been acquired by Mrs. Ethel Levine, who will continue the business at its present location. Mrs. Levine announced today. Operators will be Jerry Gerlach and Dolores Lines. The telephone number of the shop has been changed from 2633 to 6453.

Newspapers Will Be Encased in Freedom Capsule

The Kingston Daily Freeman will be one of a group of newspapers from which 100 will be chosen to be sealed in a time capsule at Valley Forge, Pa., Freedom Foundation, Inc., has announced.

The front pages of 100 American newspapers will be among the documents sealed into the "Freedom Capsule" to be embedded under a 100 foot flagpole in front of the Freedom Foundation's new national headquarters at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, on October 22, 1949. It was announced today by Kenneth Del Wells, executive vice president of the Foundation.

Newspapers of the nation have been asked to send the Foundation copies of the front page or the editorial page of their final editions for the date of October 5, 1949. From these the 100 front or editorial pages to be encased in the "Freedom Capsule" will be selected on a geographical basis.

On October 21st, 22nd and 23rd the 1949 Freedom Awards Jury will convene at the Foundation's Valley Forge Headquarters to make final selection of 144 recipients of the $94,000 in cash awards plus 100 medals and 500 certificates of merit granted this year to citizens in all walks of life who have "spoken up for freedom" in America.

While at Valley Forge, on Saturday, October 22, the Awards Jury will seal the Freedom Capsule and embed it in a huge concrete monolith under a 100 foot flagpole.

In addition to the 100 newspaper pages, the Freedom Capsule will contain:

Copies of the Constitution, Bill of Rights, Declaration of Independence and other American Freedom documents. Statements to be written on the spot, by each of the Awards Jury, describing the "Status of Freedom" in America as of October 22, 1949, as they see it individually.

All of these things will be sealed into the "Freedom Capsule."

On the outside of the monolith a set of instructions will be carved and addressed to the residents of Valley Forge, A. D. 2040. On October 22nd of that year they are to remove the Freedom Capsule and read the documents. Thus will it be judged how well we have defended and extended the American way of life so that our children and our children's children may enjoy our blessings of Freedom.

V.A. Drops Issue On Congress; New Teeth Are Needed

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—The Veterans Administration tossed one of its hottest potatoes — abuses of G.I. education benefits — into the lap of Congress today. Veterans Administrator Carl R. Gray, in easing the sharpest of his recent restrictions on veterans training yesterday, said it's up to Congress to put new teeth into the G.I. bill.

Gray warned that unless the law is made more strict, the cost of training veterans for jobs will exceed a staggering $60,000,000, 000 by the time the benefits expire July 25, 1956.

Acting Chairman Pepper (D-Fla.) called the Senate Labor and Education Committee into closed session (10 a. m.) to consider the education and training problems.

Pepper yesterday read the committee a letter from H. V. Stirling, assistant veterans administrator, which said that Gray has concluded he lacks authority under existing law to correct grave abuses that now exist.

Stirling said practically every World War 2 veteran is eligible for education or training under the existing law, whether he needs it or not.

"Schools have been organized since June 22, 1944 for the sole purpose of offering courses which everyone knows would not be continued without G.I. payments," he said.

Gray repeated the controversial "Instruction 1-A" he had issued three weeks ago.

It required veterans to provide special justification before they could resume interrupted courses, transfer to new courses or schools, take post graduate work or enroll in schools established since September, 1944.

G.O.P. Claims Queens for Dulles

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—The capture of New York city's Queens county as the key to the fall election is claimed for Sen. John Foster Dulles by his Republican campaign leadership.

Dulles is now stamping the state in his Senate contest with former Governor Herbert H. Lehman, the Democratic-Liberal nominee.

At the same time Dulles' campaign manager, Alger H. Chapman, claimed that 450,000 Communists and fellow travelers will register and vote this fall.

"And everyone knows they will not vote for Senator Dulles," Chapman said at a news conference.

Stassen Hints He May Be Candidate

Philadelphia, Oct. 6 (AP)—Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, hinted today he may be a presidential candidate in 1952.

Asked in an interview about his chances for the presidency, the former governor of Minnesota said he considered the time "too early" to go into the question but added:

"I have always been interested in public affairs and intend to retain that interest. I am deeply concerned about the fundamental policies that affect the people of this country, questions that involve peace or war, good living conditions and bad living conditions."

Stassen was an unsuccessful candidate for the Republican presidential nomination last year.

Summations May Wait
New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Summations in the Communist conspiracy trial, scheduled to begin today, may be postponed because of the illness of a defense lawyer, Richard Gladstein, Federal Judge Harold R. Medina was notified by Mrs. Gladstein yesterday that her husband had a temperature and bad cold, and might not be able to be present for today's session. Gladstein is counsel for Robert Thompson, New York state chairman of the Communist party, and Gus Hall, the party's Ohio state chairman.

In adult life, the oyster usually is attached to some hard object. This may be a shell, either live or empty, or it may be attached to the piling under a pier.

Federal Hearing Is Nearing End On Price Formula

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—A federal hearing to determine a price formula for Class 1-A (fluid) milk in the six-state New York milkshed neared an end today with dairy interests still at odds.

A "cost plus profit" formula, proposed by the Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association, was the storm center.

The hearing, which opened in Olean Sept. 19, is scheduled to move to New York city tomorrow. It is in its sixth day here.

Paul M. Selbeck, of Armenia, secretary of Eastern, charged last night in a statement to newsmen that the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association was not "producer-minded."

Selbeck said that Frank D. Lent, league counsel, had attacked the "cost plus profit" plan "in the interest of consumers."

Lent replied to newsmen that the proposed Eastern formula "is not in the interests of dairy farmers because in an ascending price level it would price milk at ruinously low levels."

The "cost plus profit" plan would price fluid milk solely on cost of production plus a 23-cent per hundredweight margin of profit. A hundredweight is approximately 47 quarts.

Selbeck's blast was prompted by Lent's hearing testimony, in which Lent termed the Eastern formula ridiculous.

The "cost plus profit" formula is sought by three cooperatives in addition to Eastern. They are the Lehigh Valley Coop, Mutual and the United Dairy Farmers, which is a branch of District 50 of the United Mine Workers Union. R. F. Kinney, president of Eastern, said his group had no intention of using the hearing "to incite producer unrest and distrust" of the federal-state marketing order governing the metropolitan New York milk supply. Any pricing formula adopted would become a part of the order.

"We endorse the principles of the order," Kinney added.

Other proposed pricing formulas have been submitted by the Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency, of which the Dairyman's League is a member, and the New York Milkshed Price Committee.

Adjustment Is Needed

Washington, Oct. 6 (AP)—Only adjustment of House and Senate differences is needed now to complete congressional action on a bill to extend rural telephone service with government loans. The Senate late yesterday passed, with several amendments, a House bill permitting the Rural Electrification Administration to make loans at 2 per cent interest for the expansion of telephone service in rural areas.

Ulster Dairyman Back Milk for Health Plan

Milk for Health, Inc., a producer-supported advertising and educational program to stimulate sales of milk, has enlisted 55 per cent of dairymen in the New York milkshed. It was announced this week by Jacob F. Pratt of Schaghticoke, board president.

The movement was joined by a group of Ulster county dairymen who met September 27 and formed a local milk for health committee. The latest endorsement to be received was from the Ulster County Cooperative Dairymen, Inc., the Lawrence county's largest dairy group. The Milk for Health program is a cooperative endeavor by dairymen to make use of the facilities of the American Dairy Association and the National Dairy Council in marketing milk. The goal, according to Pratt, is to enlist 80 per cent of all dairymen in the milk shed.

U.N. Flag Is Raised

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—The blue and white United Nations flag, with its olive-branch emblem for world peace, has been raised atop the steel framework of the U.N. future permanent headquarters, headed by U.N. Secretary General Trygve Lie, and helmeted steelworkers watched yesterday as the flag was unfurled from the topmost girder. The ceremony marked completion of the steel framework of the 38-story skyscraper at 42nd street and the East river. The building is expected to be ready for occupancy about the middle of 1950.

Wappingers Falls

Man Is Arrested

On Thefts Charge

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—A series of thefts from automobiles in Manhattan, The Bronx and Queens was solved this morning after detectives trailed three men they saw removing luggage from a car parked in 58th street, near Fifth avenue, police reported.

Among victims of the ring, which police said looted from five to 10 automobiles a week during the past nine months, were Wellington Koo, Chinese diplomat, and a cabaret entertainer who lost three trained dogs.

Detectives James Markley and

Edwin Donlon said they saw three men force the window of an automobile in West 58th street last night and then enter a taxicab with three suitcases they had removed.

The detectives followed in another taxicab and saw the men enter a rooming house at 11 West 102nd street, police said. There they arrested the three, booked as Dominick Tribote, 30, of that address; Pasquale Marunelle, 28, of 9 West 102nd street, and Samuel Olshansky, 28, of 15 Elliott place, The Bronx.

Tribote was charged with grand larceny and violation of the Sullivan Law. Police said two automatic pistols and ammunition were found concealed in his room.

Olshansky and Marunelle were charged with grand larceny and possession of burglars' tools.

Aaron Silver, 28, of 4826 44th street, Woodside, Queens, owner of the rooming house, was charged with violation of the Sullivan Law on the ground he knew Tribote had guns concealed in the building. The detectives also arrested Ora Osborne, 21, a Negro roomer, and charged him with receiving stolen goods. A stolen suitcase and camera worth about $50 were found in his room, police said.

After questioning the others, detectives went to a midtown hotel and arrested Anthony Sulech, 24, of Stony Brook Farm, Wappinger Falls, N. Y., on a grand larceny charge. Police said one of three suitcases stolen from Wellington

Koo several weeks ago was found in his room.

Detectives quoted Tribote as saying he had given one of the stolen dogs to a woman friend and the animal subsequently ran away. Two of the performing dogs previously were recovered, police said.

In 1949, the U. S. steel industry began to raise its prices on steel made with coal rather than on steel made with charcoal.

Woodstock, Oct. 6—The dance sponsored by the Woodstock Recreation Girls Club Tuesday evening at the Town Hall was a huge success and the organization reports net proceeds of $90. The fund will be used for the purchase of uniforms for the girls' basketball teams.

There was a good turnout for the event and while the young people were in the majority, they had a fine time, and have expressed their appreciation to all those who assisted in this, their first achievement. The prize donated by Charles Goodrich Men's Shop for the girl selling the largest number of tickets, was awarded to Patricia Huty.

SAY "THANK YOU"

UNSELFCONSCIOUSLY

A husband writes in despair: "Can't the 'please' 'Thank you' routine be overdone? My wife insists on it constantly, and says I furthermore should be careful never to overlook it because of the children. So for everything from a glass of milk to handing me the newspaper, it is 'please' and then it's 'thank you.' Unless there can be some happy medium found, I'll slowly go crazy trying to be courteous to my wife."

You should say it more often than not. If there is effort on her part, say she has to get up to get you something naturally you would say thank you. If she is sitting near you and merely hands you the newspaper, it would not be necessary. Remember, however, it doesn't take any more effort to say "Some bread, please," than it does to say, "Gimme some bread!"

Divorcee Remarrying

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a divorcee with my own home and family. I am remarrying soon. The ceremony will be private, but it will be followed by a reception in my own home. How should these invitations be worded?

Answer:

Mrs. Present Name

and

Mr. So and So

request the pleasure of your company at their wedding reception, etc.

Luggage for Bridegroom

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it be permissible for the bride to give the bridegroom a wedding gift of a set of luggage? Or must this gift be jewelry?

Answer: Luggage would be very nice indeed. Jewelry is not necessary.

Eating Soup

Dear Mrs. Post: Our family hasn't been able to enjoy soup for the past month. The inevitable question arises, of whose the soup spoon belongs while eating—on the side of the plate under the soup dish or in the dish? The question arises particularly when we have sandwiches with the soup as we sometimes do for lunch or supper.

Answer: While still eating, leave it in the bowl. When finished, put it on the plate under it.

A buffet meal is a friendly, informal way to entertain. Mrs. Post gives full details for preparation, the invitation, setting the table, and the menu for dinners, lunches, and suppers in leaflet #29. To obtain a copy send 5 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to her care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Woodstock Artists Win Top Awards In Dinnerware

Two Woodstock artists won top awards in the First National Exhibition of Dinnerware Decoration sponsored jointly by the Syracuse Museum of Fine Arts and Commercial Decal Inc., makers of Ceramic Lithography, Mount Vernon.

Arnold Blanch won first prize of $500 and Anton Refregier won third prize of $150. Mr. Blanch also received two honorable mentions and Mr. Refregier one honorable mention. Second prize and two honorable mentions were awarded Charles Cobelle of Westport, Conn.

Prize winning designs will be lithographed by Commercial Decal, Inc., and applied to plates produced by American manufacturers. These plates, and a wide selection of the paintings submitted in the contest will be included in the 14th Ceramic National, sponsored by the Syracuse Museum and the Onondaga Pottery Company, makers of Syracuse China, which will open with a preview at the museum Saturday evening, October 23. Plans for circulating part of the exhibition are under consideration.

The jury consisted of Paul Bogatay, professor of ceramic art, Ohio State University, Columbus, O.; R. Guy Cowan, Onondaga Pottery Company, Syracuse; F. Cuthbertson, Klumner, Ltd., New York; Earl Lishey, Retailing Daily, New York; Viktor Schreckengost, head of the department of industrial design, Cleveland School of Art, Cleveland, O.

The deciding factor, the jury declared, was the creative quality of the design as applied to the static problem—a design suitable for dinnerware reproduction. The creative quality was considered first, with commercial success a secondary factor. It was determined that designs must be aesthetically pleasing, must project new creative trends practically, and in general add a new contribution to dinnerware decoration. The jury was concerned with the treatment, the arrangement, discrimination, style, and life the artists offered in their work.

The bride was escorted by her father. Her gown of white silk per satin was made with sweetheart neckline and bodice brooded with seed pearls. The skirt was made with a long train as was the veil which was held in place by a crown of seed pearls. She carried white orchids with streamers of bouvardia.

D.A.R. Is Opposed to A World Federation Plan

Lake Placid, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—The president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution says the organization will oppose any world federation with all its vigor.

Under such a set-up, Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne declared last night, armament's limitation would be imposed, atomic energy controlled and there would be world inspection of national defense.

"In other words," she added, "the federation would tell us what to do. I don't think the United States has reached the point where any federation is going to tell us, to use a slang expression, where to get off."

Mrs. O'Byrne addressed the opening session of the D.A.R.'s 53rd annual New York state conference.

On domestic affairs, Mrs. O'Byrne declared that "there is a governmental trend toward socialism and this trend must be watched."

"We oppose, therefore," she added, "the program of socialized medicine. We must watch against the invasion of the federal government against states rights and we must resist the tendency to march down the road of collectivism. It's about time to put a check on governmental handouts."

Free Rabies Clinics Are Scheduled for Month of October

A series of free, clean-up dog inoculation clinics will be held throughout Ulster county during the month of October, Dr. Robert H. Broad, commissioner of health, announced today.

The first clinics will be held next week, October 11, from 7 to 9 in the evening at the following places:

Cragmoor at the Mart Garage.
Highland at the fire station.
Woodstock at the fire station.
New Falls at the fire station.
Thursday, October 13, from 7 to 9 at the following:
Ellenville at the police station.
Samsonville at the school house.
Additional dog clinics will be held during the month of October, dates and locations for these will be announced.

Any local groups, sportsmen's clubs, or anyone in Ulster county who may be interested in having a group of dogs inoculated, please get in touch with the Ulster County Health Department, telephone Kingston 5300. Clinics will be arranged to give these dogs the anti-rabies vaccine.

All dog owners who have not had their dogs inoculated are urged to have this precaution taken so that inoculated dogs may run at large during the oncoming hunting season.

Since rabies now exists in Ulster county, Dr. Broad urges all citizens to observe the following measures:

1. All dog owners and dog wardens should be on the lookout for suspicious animals. Such dogs should be confined, and if they die, their heads should be sent to the state laboratory. The health department should be notified of any such animal. Dr. Gilbert F. Hoppens, veterinarian with the health department, is available for consultation.

2. All citizens should be warned about "crazy foxes." Rabid foxes lose their fear of man, attacking man, dog or cattle. Such animals should be killed and the health department notified so that the heads may be sent for examination.

3. All citizens should be aware of the existence of rabies in the county.

Rabies, as a hazard to man, is much less if the dog population is rendered immune. Dog owners are urged to take this precaution in helping to rid our county of this disease.

Since rabies may be spread by rabid foxes to dogs and perhaps eventually to humans, it is wise to protect yourself, your family and your dog by immunization. A problem such as this can be controlled when every dog owner has his dog vaccinated.

Goiter Cause
The north central states of the United States have an unusual number of cases of goiter because the soil and water there is deficient in iodine.

Do You Remember

Received an interesting letter from Ronald R. Atkins, of Charlottetown, member of N.Y.S.H.A. (I take it to be New York State Historical Assn.). His letter reads in part: "I notice some slight discrepancies concerning Sir Luke Fildes' painting 'The Doctor' as taken from your quote of the 'Consumers Reports' magazine. I also know of some additions concerning the world-famous painting by Fildes."

"Sir Samuel Luke Fildes was born in Liverpool on October 14, 1834. He was a Genre painter and a pupil of the South Kensington School and of the Royal Academy. He painted a number of pictures of Victorian life and many notable portraits, among them coronation portraits of King Edward VII, Queen Alexandra, and King George V."

You state in your article: 'It is said that Fildes, a product of poverty-ridden, 19th century rural England, intended in this painting to portray conditions he knew well. Fildes painted the scene from life, the models who posed were poor, colliers, themselves without the means to afford adequate medical care.' He writes further, 'I believe that the 'Consumers Reports' above description was inaccurate, may I quote verbatim from a July, 1947 issue of 'Western Stamp Collector' which contains the correct information:

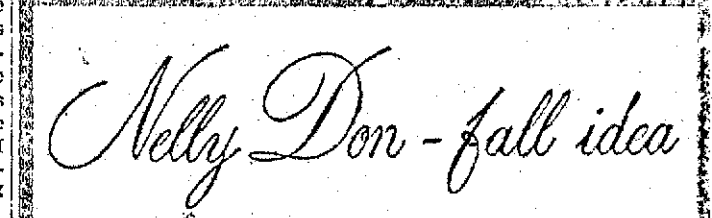

"It was during the reign of Queen Victoria that a simple forster's cottage near Belmont Castle, North Scotland, became the setting for a human drama that will live forever in this painting, 'The Doctor'. A favorite servant of the Queen lived in this cottage with her husband their only child. Upon hearing that the child was seriously ill, the Queen wired to London for her personal physician, Sir James Clark. Sir James came by special train and remained in constant attendance upon the child until the crisis was past. The child recovered."

Mr. Atkins' letter continues: "In 1891, Queen Victoria commanded Sir Luke Fildes to immortalize the scene on canvas in commemoration of the faithful devotion of the physician. The Encyclopedia Britannica is authority for the statement that the painting now hangs in the National Gallery of British Art (Tate Gallery), London. However, some reference works are authority for the statement that the original painting now hangs in the Guthrie Clinic of the Robert Packard Hospital in Sayre, Penn. I am inclined to believe that the Britannica is correct."

As you mention in your article a postage stamp was issued on June 9th, 1947, depicting the painting. It was issued in observance of the 100th anniversary of the American Medical Assn. I have enclosed one of these stamps since I thought it might be of interest to you." Mr. Atkins concludes: I think most of us are acquainted with this picture as it is on the walls of most physicians' offices. It is indeed interesting to learn some of its background. Would appreciate any other information on Sir Samuel Luke Fildes painting of "The Doctor," or "The Crisis" as some call it, to medieval times.

Maroon '11' Opens DUSO League Season Friday Night Against Port

Local Gridders Are Well Rested After Two-Week Layoff

Kingston High School resumes its 1949 gridiron campaign at the municipal stadium Friday night when Port Jervis helps the local squad open the DUSO League warfare. Game time is set for 8 p. m. under the floodlights.

While Kingston is entertaining Port Jervis here Friday night, Newburgh Free Academy travels to Middletown for the other league opener. Middletown has dropped two straight, 13 to 7 to Binghamton and 6 to 0 to North Tarrytown.

Rested from actual competition since their 14 to 0 opening night victory over Highland two weeks ago, the Maroon gridders appear ready for the Port start.

Port Jervis, weakened by the graduation of several key varsity players, is reported to have the weakest team in the loop this season, despite early victories over Walden 20 to 13 and over Goshen by 26 to 6.

From the Kingston camp, Coach Will Burke reports his squad in tip-top shape for the opening league battle. The locals are in good shape except for a few minor injuries.

Kingston, in all likelihood, will open the game against Port with the same lineup which faced Highland.

Sparked by the 1949 Touchdown Twins—Ronnie and Bud Scheffel—the Maroons will have Clark Shaughnessy, Harvey Keyes, Harold Acker and Jack Weber.

This quartet opened the year for Kingston and showed plenty of promise although the members need polish before the season gets much older. The backfield does have speed, however, and this, coupled with a polished offensive and defensive attack, will be important as the season rolls on.

Flanked by Bud Scheffel and Jim Rich on the ends, Kingston's line has power as it showed in the Highland opener. Others due to start in the forward wall are Douw Meyers, Will Hansen, Hank Levy, Norm Rice and Berryann.

One of the few bright spots in the Port Jervis outlook this fall is the work of Phil Chase, quarterback for the Tri-Staters.

This is Chase's first varsity season with the squad and much is expected of the youngster.

The rest of the Port backfield has Carroll and Hoppey at half-backs and Eddie Polaris at full.

The ancient Greek physician Podanios Dioscorides recommended dried rose leaves in wine for headaches, pains in the eyes, ears and gums.

Probe Continues
Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—District Attorney Gordon Steele continued his investigation today into the death of Enrico Bertola, 27-year-old Italian boxer. Bertola died of a head injury—an intercranial hemorrhage—Medical Examiner Milton J. Schulz said last night after an autopsy. Death came less than 15 hours after Bertola lost a ten-round decision to Lee Oma of Newark Tuesday night in Memorial Auditorium. The District Attorney directed Oma and the manager of both boxers to remain in Buffalo.

Reynolds supplied the answer in spades. Never was he better. His curve ball drifted past Dodge's bats like the blue haze of the sultry October afternoon. Page spent the afternoon sitting, not throwing, in the bullpen.

Page, of course, is the relief ace who followed Reynolds in 20 of the 31 regular season games he started. The Reynolds-Page corporation has been dissolved, temporarily, at least.

For 25-year-old Newcombe, making his first series appearance, this is a disheartening setback. Big Newk, the jumbo-sized freshman, pitched good enough to win 90 per cent of the time. He yielded only five hits, two to Reynolds. This just didn't happen to be his turn.

Newcombe's 11 strikeouts were close to the series high of 13, hung out by old Howard Ehmke, that October day in 1929 when Connie Mack unveiled him as his surprise starter against Chicago.

As fine as Newcombe was, Reynolds had to be better. The first-inning double by Spider Jorgensen, that Johnny Lindell failed to reach after a late start, might have been caught. Allie didn't allow another hit until Pee Wee Reese singled to center with one out in the eighth. He fanned nine.

Short of Record
They might still be out there, pitching their arms away, if "Old Reliable" Henrich, the Dodge hero, hadn't policed a few comebacks among the right field seats. Between them they struck out 20 men, only two short of the record set in the 1944 St. Louis Cardinals series.

The good folks of Flatbush have reason to remember Mr. Henrich from previous meetings. Tom is the man who was "struck out" by Hugh Casey in the 1941 series only to have Mickey Owen drop the third strike. In the ensuing confusion, the Yanks scored four runs

Roe Hope for Brooks in Second Game Today

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Allie Reynolds' amazing two-hit shut-out of Brooklyn boosts the New York Yankees into the drivers' seat in the 46th World Series.

Now Manager Casey Stengel has the edge. He can gamble and lose. Still confident of no worse than an even break. For "gambling" purposes he has a fit and ready Vic Raschi, the hero of Sunday's pennant clincher against the Boston Red Sox.

Burt Shotton, elderly keeper of the Brooks, can't afford to miss with this afternoon's choice of Preacher Roe, the angular Arkansas Traveler.

In any World Series, the first game winner has a tremendous jump. After they lose, as the Boston Braves did after whipping Cleveland's Bobby Feller in last year's series, but the odds are in their favor.

After yesterday's 1-0 victory, made possible by Tommy Henrich's last of the ninth home run, the price makers rubbed off the old 10 to 17 odds favoring the Yanks and made it 1 to 3. For today's pairing of Raschi vs. Roe, they quote 10 to 13 with New York the choice.

Few Series games have produced better duels than the one Reynolds, the 31-year-old Oldie, and Don Newcombe, the Dodgers' 235-pound Negro rookie, staged for 66,224 fans yesterday at the Yankee Stadium.

Didn't Need Page
It was a soul-satisfying triumph for Reynolds because "Old Wahoo" has been blistered all season in the public prints. Folks point at his 17-8 record and sneer "Yeah, but only four complete games. Where could he be without Joe Page?"

Reynolds supplied the answer in spades. Never was he better. His curve ball drifted past Dodge's bats like the blue haze of the sultry October afternoon. Page spent the afternoon sitting, not throwing, in the bullpen.

Page, of course, is the relief ace who followed Reynolds in 20 of the 31 regular season games he started. The Reynolds-Page corporation has been dissolved, temporarily, at least.

For 25-year-old Newcombe, making his first series appearance, this is a disheartening setback. Big Newk, the jumbo-sized freshman, pitched good enough to win 90 per cent of the time. He yielded only five hits, two to Reynolds. This just didn't happen to be his turn.

to win a game in which Henrich should have been the last out.

Two years ago Henrich's hitting, including another homer, was a decisive factor in the Dodgers' seven-game loss to the Yanks.

Roe figures to give the Yanks trouble. He is an experienced, crafty left-hander who has learned the "know how" of pitching. No longer does he have the real hop on the fast one but he carves the corners and gets by.

Roe has one vital weakness—the old home run ball or the goopher pitch. Most of the black sways in his first 15-4 season record have come from that chunk in his armor. It's the first Series for Roe, a 31-year-old vet who once toiled in the Cardinal chain gang.

Raschi, a 30-year-old right-hander, saw service briefly in the 1947 Series, working 12 2/3 innings in relief. He really came into his own during the last two seasons.

The early date of June 18, Vic had voiced up an 11-1 record. Although he had 15 by July 21, he didn't make the 20-mark until the last week of the season. Win No. 21 was Raschi's most important for it was a fine five-hitter against Boston Sunday, the pennant winner.

The threat of rain for yesterday's opener disappeared under the benign glance of Commissioner A. B. Chandler who hasn't had a postponement since he took office 27 games ago. For today they are talking about increasing cloudiness and possibly rain in the afternoon. Happy had better keep smiling.

Hudson Pros Withdraw
Albany, N. Y., Oct. 6 (AP)—Hudson has dropped out of the Eastern Professional Football League for the 1949 season. The withdrawal yesterday, because of poor attendance, reduced the circuit's eastern division to five teams. They are Troy, Whitehall, Hudson Falls, Glens Falls and Schenectady-Scofield. Hudson's scheduled games will be automatic byes for the other teams.

World Series Briefs

New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Pee Wee Reese has been in three World Series and he never has been caught stealing. He had three in 1947 and one yesterday—none in '41.

Yank Manager Casey Stengel had a dilemma in the eighth inning. Pitcher Allie Reynolds was due to bat and the situation called for a pinch-hitter. Case had Johnny Mize and Bobby Brown ready. "But, heck," he said, "Reynolds had been my best hitter in the game. So I left him in there."

Fred Snigh, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, the team that almost made it but didn't, was in for the Series and said he had mailed $3,000,000 in requests for tickets. He also revealed he had received 155,000 pieces of mail, cumulating the 126,000 received in 1946, when the Cards won.

Newspapers from England, Australia, Japan and many South American countries were represented in the press box. Commented Don Newcombe: "It's a thrill to pitch in the Series, but this is just another game after Sunday."

One of the big reasons Shotton went with Newcombe was that the big fellow would be available again on Saturday in Ebbets Field.

Joe DiMaggio, who survived the entire game, had nothing but praise for Newcombe. Marvelled at his control. One of the most valuable Yankees will never get in a Series game, he's Hugh

Rain Delays Opening Of Little World Series

Indianapolis, Oct. 6 (AP)—Montreal Royals and the Indianapolis Indians will try again tonight to get the Indianapolis phase of the Little World Series started.

Rain last night forced postponement of the fourth game of the best-of-seven series between the playoff champions of the International League and the American Association. Indianapolis came home with a 2-1 lead after three games at Montreal.

The weather forecast was for cloudiness and rain again tonight. An overflow crowd of 13,000 persons is expected if weather permits play.

The advance guard was already in the stands when the postponement was announced a short time before game time last night.

Managers Al Lopez of Indianapolis and Ray Hopper of Montreal expect to go about with last night's pitching changes tonight.

Southpaw Joe Mauer, three-hit victor in the first game at Montreal, will pitch against the Royals again. Clarence Padon, who looked sharp in relief in that game, will start against Mauer.

Tami to Quit
New York, Oct. 6 (AP)—Tami Mauriello, former heavyweight title contender, at 26 says he's through with fighting. "I don't intend to fight again," the big New Yorker said last night after he was stopped in the second round by Cesar Brian of Argentina at St. Nicholas Arena. Mauriello was knocked out by Joe Louis in the first round of a heavyweight title bout Sept. 18, 1946. Brian weighed 197 1/2 lbs., Mauriello 201.

Sarazen Pledges Aid in City's Proposed 18-Hole Golf Course

Kingston golfers' long proposed and hoped-for 18-hole course received another vital shot in the proverbial arm at the Stuyvesant Hotel Wednesday night when Gene Sarazen, one of America's great immortals of the links, personally pledged financial assistance in making the new layout become a reality.

Sarazen, the German town squire, was the principal guest of honor at the fourth annual inter-city club Wiltwyck-Twaitskill banquet following a personal appearance in the day when he was matched with Alex Gerlak in a benefit for the polo fund.

With hosts of golfing luminaries on hand, belated tribute was paid to Alvin Boice, 1949 city champion who received a watch, trophy and other gifts. Youthful Leon Randall, who was defeated by Boice in the city finale, also was recognized.

After being introduced by Charlie Tiano, master of ceremonies for the program who spoke of Sarazen as "one of the great competitors of the sport," the guest speaker said one of the greatest drawbacks in this locality in the progress of golf is the lack of a good 18-hole course. He said the entire Hudson Valley area was void of such a layout.

"Kingston actually has the ideal site for this contemplated course," the U. S. ace added.

At the end of his interesting address, which was followed by an interview, Sarazen, accepting an invitation to appear at the grand opening when the course is finally accomplished, said "and you may send me a blank check for me to do my part in bringing about the realization of this course."

The importance of having "feeder clubs" also was stressed by Sarazen who said such clubs in turn send out future golf members to private clubs. "An ideal setup here," he said, "would be for the two nine-hole clubs to act as feeders into the 18-hole organization."

Interesting sidelights throughout the colorful career of Sarazen were depicted through the open interview conducted by the master of ceremonies.

Some of the more important points brought to light by Sarazen included the following:

The present crop of golfers won't last as long as the older generation. He illustrated this point with the case of Byron Nelson, whom Sarazen said was one of the greatest shotmakers of all modern players.

The player of today thinks too much of the U. S. dollar. Sarazen said out of his greatest thrill was in 1932 when he won the British Open. "Today, however, golfers think of the British Open as just another tourney. It's too bad because the need of international play is great—it's the key to the game."

Fraises Bobby Jones
Other great names in the field of golf were cited by Gene who said Walter Hagen, in his opinion, was the greatest competitor of all but was actually a second-rater as a shot-maker. He tabbed Bobby Jones as the most brilliant of all golfers, the greatest amateur of all.

Sarazen depicted Sammy Snead as a natural born player. Willie Turnesa a smart golfer but not as great as others in his illustrious family. Breaking down the Turnesa boys, Sarazen said Jimmy was actually the best of the lot but he still couldn't win. Willie was the smartest and had his victories. "Your brain is an important cog in winning in golf," Sarazen pointed out.

He rated Tommy Armour as one of the greats of all time, another of those players in the "smart" category.

Sarazen revealed that he has been writing a book during the past summer which afforded him a chance to re-live his life including matches against such greats as Walt Hagen, Byron Nelson, and "now," he said, "I keep wondering who is coming up next."

The German town squire left with his audience one of his personal tips on keeping in top shape for participation in golf. "I find out the greatest trainer of all is my large club which I swing every day. Out on my farm I can't go through nine holes every day so I resort to swinging this club. It keeps my muscles in shape. Every golfer needs a lot of exercise."

Prior to Sarazen's address, M.C. Tiano reviewed the past season and commended both clubs for a fine year, especially Twaitskill for accomplishing a minor miracle in winning the city championship. He commended the work of Tommy Danaher in staging the pre-amateur tourney. He went on to add that "golf has arrived as a spectator's sport in Kingston as was evidenced this season." He also said that there was still room for bigger and better games in the future and asked all to give thought to expanding local golf facilities.

Trophies Awarded
Prior to the presentation of the awards, several guests were introduced including Tommy Danaher, Alex Gerlak, Roy Vogt, Billy Van Aken, Maurice Davenport, Dick McCarthy and Irwin J. Thomas of The Freeman.

Mrs. Charles Burnett was awarded trophy for winning the women's division in the first annual Freeman tourney while Jimmy Dwyer of Twaitskill won the men's trophy.

Alvin Boice, the new city champ, received a trophy in honor of his feat and later a watch from an honor member of Twaitskill. Boice also received a gift from Dr. Doug Meyers. Leon Randall, who was defeated by Boice, was introduced and neatly praised Boice as a fine golfer and sportsman.

Following the banquet and speakers, dancing was enjoyed.

Katrine Club Sets Prize Shoot Sunday

The annual prize shoot at the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club will be held Sunday, it was announced this morning by a club official. The trap and skeet shoot will be open to all interested marksmen.

Feature event of the day will be the club's annual championship match for all members.

Another feature of the day's program will be the pheasant shoot which has been popular in recent years.

Rifle practice will be in order for followers of that sport. A life-sized deer will be the target for all rifle marksmen. Another event will be the stationary target. Cash prizes will be awarded in all contests.

Islanders
Santa Clara, Calif. (AP)—Three members of the Santa Clara freshman football team are from the Hawaiian Islands. Gene Paon, quarterback, went to St. Louis Prep in Honolulu; Marvin Ferreira is from Kamehameha high in Honolulu; and is in guard, and Ed Thompson and went to Ponahou high in Honolulu.

Those in the 400 bracket were G. Strother, 415; K. North, 408; Richard Patrick, 440; A. Ralston, 401; R. Murphy, 415; A. Mauro, 449.

M. Short's 388 triple topped the Women's Booster session at the "Palace."

Others of note were B. Hooker, 365; J. McKeown, 349; D. Zehner, 365; D. Jankowski, 378; Fannie Brady, 386.

Ralph Post who led the American Division of the Federation League two weeks ago, regained top form last night by shooting 603 on games of 189-197-217 to lead the pack.
